Statements Conflict In Kidnaping

LINDY STICKS TO POSITION ON WORK ON TRIO

Intermediary Says If There's Failure "Kidnapers Alone Will Know Why"

NO FURTHER DETAILS

Rumors Again Report Lindbergh Baby Aboard Yacht on Chesapeake Bay

Hopewell, N. J. (P)—The Norfolk and Hopewell angles of the Lindbergh kidnaping puzzle still failed to fit together today as the baby's captivity stretched on toward a full month.

In Norfolk one of three negotiators trying to get Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., back from the kidnapers who stole him March 1 declared Col. Lindbergh had asked them to carry their efforts forward.

In Hopewell Col. Lindbergh was quoted as expressing the belief that "no specific significance" attaches to the Norfolk activities.

The Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, prominent Norfolk clergyman, said he, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage and John H. Curtis, boat builder, had been authorized to continue negotiations.

Rumors that the baby aboard a vessel on Chesapeake bay flew again when a report came from Baltimore that Charles H. Consolo, Norfolk hotel owner, had offered his yacht to the kidnapers.

Questioned by reporters, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, conferred with Col. Lindbergh and said the "no specific significance" statement still stood.

Department of justice agents began questioning residents in this vicinity. Among other developments was a visit by two Kansas City detectives who are in New Jersey seeking Martin Depue in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly of Kansas City. They said they gave Schwarzkopf "pretty good" information on the Lindbergh case.

BURRAGE'S STATEMENT

Norfolk, Va.—(P)—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, at a conference with newspapermen today, said "nothing has happened" in further negotiations here for the recovery of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

"I will give you this statement," he said, "if there is failure the kidnapers, and they alone, will know why."

Admiral Burrage, who said he was also speaking for his fellow intermediaries, Dean H. Dobson-Peacock and John Hughes Curtis, refused to explain the meaning of the statement.

Interviewers pointed out that he was giving out a riddle and pressed for an explanation, but Admiral Burrage continued to refuse.

Admiral Burrage was asked if progress had been made as a result of Dean Dobson-Peacock's recent visit to Colonel Lindbergh.

"I am still working," he replied. "All work is progress."

Dean Dobson-Peacock declined to add to a formal statement telling of Colonel Lindbergh's personal request that they continue their work.

Returning yesterday afternoon the dean reiterated his expressions of optimism as the ultimate success of their negotiations.

New Jersey officers working on the case who previously announced that Colonel Lindbergh "attached no special significance" to the information received from the Norfolk men at a visit last week, said last night that the colonel's opinion was unchanged after his interview with Dean Dobson-Peacock but the dean himself indicated that the father of the kidnaped child regarded their clue as well founded.

His oral statement was supplemented by a formal statement issued.

FARM PRICES REVEAL ADVANCE OF ONE POINT

Washington (P)—Farm prices advanced last month for the first time since October. The index of the general level on March 15 was 61 per cent of the 1910-1914 average—one point above the February figure.

The index for grains was 51 per cent, the same as a month ago. Slight advances in wheat, barley and rye were offset by a decline in corn prices. Meat animals advanced four points to 69 per cent of pre-war.

Advances also were made by fruits and vegetables which were up five points, and for cotton and cottonseed, up three points. Butter, butterfat and eggs declined five points.

COUZENS HITS RAILWAY LOANS

Senator Points to Fund for Missouri Pacific as an Example

Washington (P)—Railroad loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation were condemned in the senate today by Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committee.

Pointing specifically to the recent loan of $12,800,000 to the Missouri Pacific railroad, Couzens said the market value of the securities produced by this railroad was only $12,450,000.

He also called attention that the reconstruction corporation adopted a resolution approving the loan and submitted it to the Interstate Commerce Commission before asking the formal approval of the latter.

The commission then approved the loan "with reluctance."

"I have no knowledge," said Couzens, "of congress having declared a policy of government ownership of the railroads, and yet the loan to the Missouri Pacific and others that have been approved, and others still pending clearly indicate to me that if loans are continued in the same manner as they have been in the past many of these properties will eventually revert to the government or the government will lose its investment."

"The government will at least find itself in possession of the least desirable and least profitable railroads."

Couzens said the Interstate Commerce commission had approved many fees charged by "money merchants" for financing the railroads on the ground that they stood back of the carriers and were of great value to them.

"This has proven a false conclusion because they are not standing back of them," Couzens said. "This is particularly true of the New York Central, considered one of the strongest of the roads, because it has had to borrow $4,399,000 in spite of the fact that Morgan and Company always profited to a large extent from financing it."

The Pennsylvania, Couzens said, had also asked for a loan of $55,000,000, which he called further proof that the theory had not worked out.

Many of the railroads which have applied for loans, Couzens added, have not earned as much as 30 per cent of their operating expenses during 1931.

He said if the present economic situation lasted two and a half or three years all the roads would be applying for loans, not only the weaker lines.

STORM AT ASHLAND

Ashland (P)—A cold north wind this morning turned a heavy rain into snow and whipped up a near-blizzard in the bay region. The snow did not impede traffic greatly.

GLASS ATTACKS OPPONENTS OF BANK MEASURE

Virginian Says "Stimulated Propaganda" Responsible for Criticism

Washington (P)—A charge that opposition to the Glass banking revision bill has been inspired by "stimulated propaganda" was made in a senate banking committee hearing today by Senator Glass (D., Va.).

Glass shouted the accusation during testimony by James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Pittsburgh Clearing house, opposing the bill which is intended to curb stock speculation.

"Bankers from all over the country have come to protest," said Burke.

"Yes," cut in Glass sharply, "and they were brought here and organized to protest and I think you were too."

"Didn't we have the same kind of protests before the federal reserve law was enacted? That shows exactly how much importance should be attached to stimulated propaganda."

Burke replied that the bankers "have a right to come here" and have done so voluntarily.

Burke, general counsel of the Republican National committee and a former Republican member of the house, presented a resolution of the Pittsburgh Clearing house opposing the Glass bill as "unwise and unnecessary."

He asserted a sweeping revision of the country's banking system is particularly inadvisable under present economic conditions.

As previous witnesses have done, he said the bill would nullify the benefits of recent federal reconstruction measures by contracting credit and would centralize too much authority in the federal reserve board.

Burke said it "ought not to be necessary" for the bankers to have to come here, and said they should be at home seeking a solution of their banking problems.

Glass grimly agreed that is where they should be.

Burke was asked directly by Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), whether he appeared as attorney for the Republican National committee.

The witness replied in the negative saying he testified on behalf of the Pittsburgh Clearing house.

Howard Bruce, chairman of the Baltimore Trust company, also testified against the bill, saying "no legislation should be proposed that is even open to the suspicion of retarding our recovery from the present stagnation."

TAYLOR BECOMES U. S. STEEL CHIEF

Named Chairman of Corporation's Board to Succeed J. P. Morgan

New York (P)—Myron C. Taylor, who started out to be a lawyer and became an industrial titan instead, today is big chief of U. S. Steel.

He was named chairman of the corporation's board yesterday to succeed J. P. Morgan, resigned. Also, he was designated as chief executive officer, a title held by William James A. Farrell who retires April 13.

He was already chairman of the finance committee. He now has the title as chief executive, the full executive director of the world's greatest industrial enterprise. He thus fills the shoes of the late Judge Albert H. Gary, who died in 1927.

Mr. Taylor is a Cornell graduate. He became a dominating figure in the New England textile industry years ago. George F. Baker, late financier, became interested in him and made him a director of the First National bank.

Mr. Morgan who has "for some time wanted to give up the chairmanship which he accepted as a temporary measure" will remain a director. He will maintain a close contact with the organization. William A. Lawrence, now a vice president, was selected some time ago to succeed Mr. Farrell as president.

MICHIGAN SLAYER TO HEAR FATE TOMORROW

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. (P)—Circuit Judge Victor D. Sprague of Sheboygan has announced he will hold a special session of court tomorrow to sentence Leonard Minor, 25, charged with slaying a 14-year-old girl and a boyhood chum because of jealousy.

Minor has confessed, authorities said, but he shot and killed Lenora Selby, 14, and Howard Martindale, 23, at Revere, Mich., Sunday. He asked that a guilty plea be entered at his arraignment because Justice Ralph Henderson, Minor was arrested near Gould City Monday.

SOUTHWEST CLEANS UP AFTER IT'S HIT BY BIG SAND STORM

Kansas City (P)—Housewives of the southwest had a heavy job of dusting today and there were some repair jobs for the men. South winds did tricks over the area.

The gale reached 54 miles an hour at Wichita, Kas., yesterday. Soil blew away from crop roots. Airplanes were forced off schedules. Trees fell. Windows rattled under the pounding of the storm. Roofs suffered. Road scrapers were brought out to clear two western Kansas highways of drifted sand.

Northbound pilots were happy with tailwinds which pushed one United Airlines tri-motored plane over the 500 miles from Dallas, Tex., to Kansas City in three hours and twenty minutes. South bound pilots were out of luck.

All aviators, however, were equals at the take-off into the wind. That helped. Tri-motored transports here got into the air after runs of only 75 feet or so. Airport attaches said they normally required about 1,000.

Admit Plot To Get Fund For Wedding

Los Angeles (P)—Police said today they had solved a "kidnaping" mystery in which a 19-year-old girl voluntarily submitted to abduction to aid in extorting money from her father so she and her sweetheart could be married.

Ben Clifford, 23, was arrested as he tried to collect $500 in ransom money from Albert Bray, well-to-do real estate owner, for the return of his daughter, Rita, who disappeared Friday.

In a room in a downtown hotel, police said, they found Miss Bray quietly talking with Arthur Lake, 24, a friend of long standing.

The girl and the two men were placed in jail. Detectives later announced all three had confessed they plotted to obtain money so that Miss Bray and Lake could be married.

Clifford, it was explained, assisted merely as a friend.

"I was the cause of it all," the girl was quoted as saying. "Arthur and I wanted to get married, but he had no job. I wrote the first letter to dad and I watched two other letters being written. I didn't think father would take it as hard as he did."

FOUR ARRAIGNED ON PROHIBITION CHARGES

Madison (P)—Four men arrested as the result of a raid at Richland Center yesterday were brought here today for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Frank R. Bentley by federal prohibition enforcement agents. Those arrested are Grover Watson, Ed Haggerty, James Perros and Tom Dray, all of Richland Center.

SIROVICH RETURNS TO PATENT HEARINGS

Washington (P)—Chairman Sirovich of the house patents committee, who collapsed under the strain of hard work last week, today was back on the job. He opened hearings on a group of patent bills designed to extend the patent coverage period to 29 years.

State Not "Wet Center" Of Midwest, Dry Claims

Chicago (P)—Wisconsin is no longer the "wet center" of the midwest, and there is less drinking in Milwaukee this year than ever before, Mrs. W. A. Lawton, former state president of the W. C. T. U. for Wisconsin, said here yesterday.

Mrs. Lawton and other delegates to a W. C. T. U. meeting disagreed with the statement made by M. L. Harney, prohibition administrator for the Chicago district, that enforcement is difficult in Wisconsin because the state had no state enforcement law.

"Though Wisconsin may be a little behind," Mrs. Lawton said, "I want you to know we are always fighting up there. One thing it may please you to know is that the Pabst brewery in Milwaukee now is manufacturing the padlocks that you put on saloon doors in Chicago. The other day a shipment of 14,000 padlocks went to New York city."

The national W. C. T. U. has been holding a conference here and the delegates today approved a report which declared prohibition was still the best method of dealing with liquor traffic and its enforcement was becoming "increasingly efficient."

FORESTRY MEN PLAN PROGRAM AT MILWAUKEE

Discuss Chief Problems Existing in Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota

Milwaukee (P)—Committee reports on forestry problems existing in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota were prepared here today as a final step in the conference of timber land owners, forestry and conservation officials called by Earl W. Tinker, federal regional forester.

From these reports, dealing with six phases of safeguarding the future development of forests, Tinker said he hoped to obtain a comprehensive plan whereby the public's interest in forest products would be protected.

High taxes, foreign competition and low prices were cited by representatives of the pulp making industries of the lake states as reasons why timberland owners hesitate to practice reforestation on their holdings. Shorter working hours, an orderly reduction in wages, and equalization of currency between this and other nations were offered as means toward solution of the problem.

M. J. Fox of Iron Mountain, a member of the Michigan Conservation commission, said the dumping of the Russian lumber in this country is one of the greatest menaces to our forestry development.

Severe Competition

"Our Wisconsin manufacturers say they can not make pulp for less than $35 per ton, yet foreign competitors are selling it for less than $30, delivered in the state," he said.

"Our railroad yards are lined with native pulp, yet Norwegian shipments continue to arrive."

Dr. Raphael Zohn of St. Paul, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment station, was more optimistic. He said the world consumption of lumber is on the increase, and that a definite undergrowth of timber for the future will in time equalize the temporary overproduction.

Declaring that all property taxes are approaching the state of confiscation, B. Goodman of Goodman, Wis., a member of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, said the cost of government must be lowered and the tax burden shifted to the wealthier communities.

NO EARLY WHEAT DEAL WITH GREECE LIKELY

Washington (P)—If the Greek government wants to buy 7,000,000 bushels of wheat from the farm board, it will have to pay cash.

Indications that such a deal is imminent found no strong foundation in Washington. At the farm board, only comment was "Cash no credit."

The Greek minister said he did not present an offer to the board since last December. At that time 1,000,000 bushels figured in the discussions.

24 BUFFALOES ESCAPE FROM OKLAHOMA RANCH

Ponca City, Okla. (P)—Stampeded buffaloes roamed the highways of northern Oklahoma today. Hard riding cowboys were in pursuit. It was not an old-fashioned buffalo hunt, however. The herdsmen were attempting to roundup 24 escaped animals of the plains, which stampeded from the cattle yard of the V. I. Ranch last night and took to the highways.

TWO MEN SOUGHT IN MYSTERIOUS ATTACK

Green Bay (P)—Authorities today sought two men who are alleged to have deliberately run down Henry McCabe, syndicate filling station proprietor, with their automobile after beating Everett Brown, Lawrence, a friend of McCabe. According to McCabe's story the men drove up to the station last night. After asking Miller if he was a friend of McCabe, they beat him about the face. McCabe ran to Miller's rescue and the men jumped into their automobile, backed it up and ran into McCabe. Although thrown several feet, McCabe was not critically injured. He could not ascribe a motive for the attack.

MISS WALL ELIMINATED

Pinehurst, N. C. (P)—Margaret Mafford of Atlanta, eliminated Berne Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., from the North and South Women's Golf tournament today. The score was 6 and 5.

Coast Guard Boats Seize Two Vessels With Liquor Cargoes Worth $150,000

New London, Conn. (P)—The Game Cock, described by officials as a British liquor supply boat, and the Yacht 247 of Boston, were seized last night by coast guard patrol boats from the New London base. They carried liquor valued by authorities at $150,000.

Thirteen men comprising the crews of the captured craft were arrested. Coast officials said the yacht was a contact boat.

The Game Cock, of Bridgetown, Barbadoes, labeled for forfeiture as a result of a previous seizure, was captured three quarters of a mile south of Coggeshall ledge, near Newport, R. I., as she came in from the high seas. Coast guard officials expressed the opinion she had intended to land her cargo of 1,550 cases of liquor on a beach.

Registered as a pleasure craft, the Boston yacht was captured eight miles south of the Sakonnet river.

R. I., right, on the high seas with 2,000 cases of liquor aboard. During the World war she was used as a navy submarine chaser.

The Game Cock was captured last November and freed under $7,500 bonds.

Coast guard headquarters said that no resistance was offered by either vessel.

The Game Cock, last reported to the coast guard as having cleared from Liverpool, N. S., in ballast March 24 for Bermuda, had not been seen on run for some time.

She is an 80-foot craft and was constructed at Mystic. It has been on the coast guard run runner suspect list since going into commission.

IN YACHTING CLASSIC

New Port, R. I. (P)—The former navy sub-chaser 247, now registered as a private yacht, which two years ago served as a tender for the America's cup candidate Tankees, and in a similar capacity for the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, during the last international yachting classic, was seized during the night as a run runner.

The seizure was made off Warren's point, R. I., near the south of the Seconnet river. Her crew of seven offered no resistance to a coast guard boat from New London. According to coast guardsmen, the 247 had 3,000 cases of liquor aboard. None of the crew would admit he was captain of the craft, all insisting the skipper had worn ashore. Boat and crew were taken to New Bedford.

As the Tankees' tender, the 247 was known as the Doodle. A bag on which the Tankees' crew lingers was called the Dandy, completing the trinity "Tankees, Doodle, Dandy."

The former Boston owners of the 247 said she was now owned in New Bedford.

BELOIT BEATS NEENAH, 25-17

Tournament Favorite Eliminates Biggest Rival at Madison

Madison (P)—Mondovi and Beloit won the right to enter the second round of the state high school basketball tournament by defeating Antigo and Neenah, respectively, in the opening games here this morning.

Mondovi scored an upset in sinking Antigo's championship hopes 25 to 16 score. Beloit, tournament favorite, hurdled the biggest obstacle of the first round in disposing of Neenah 25 to 17 in a hard fought game.

Beloit defeated Neenah, 1930 champions, by a 25 to 17 score in the second game of the tournament. The southern Wisconsin team played on even terms with Neenah for three quarters and then broke through with the last period to sink five field goals and a free throw.

Neenah was a dangerous foe throughout the game and was in the lead at the end of the first half. To S. Both teams showed a powerful offense and good ball handling.

Black, Neenah guard, opened the scoring with a free throw after being fouled by Logan Swinehart. Swinehart, countered for Beloit with a field goal shortly after, however, and Watt, Beloit Negro forward, gave his team a four to one lead with a short field goal.

Owen drove through for a short shot as the first quarter ended to make the count four to three in Beloit's favor. Haire, Neenah forward, opened the second quarter with a field goal from near the free throw line to give Neenah a one point lead by Schlagenhauf followed with an overhead shot for Beloit to again put the southern team in the lead.

Haire tried a long shot and clicked but Neenah again lost the lead on Jorgensen's field goal from under the basket. Neenah gained a two point lead, however, when Owen drove through for a short shot as the first quarter ended to make the count four to three in Beloit's favor.

Tax Bill Provision Sets Two-year Limit for Higher Postage

CUT DOWN EXPENSES

Byrns Says Reduction of 243 Million Not Extravagant Estimate

Washington (P)—A 1 cent increase in first class postage was approved today by the house. The item the biggest single revenue-raiser in the ways and means committee's substitute for the sales tax, was calculated to produce $135,000,000 of revenue.

The new rate would be effective for a period of two years.

Its adoption, over the opposition of a group led by Rankin of Mississippi, one of the opponents of the sales tax, came in a steady march of the program of the committee through the house.

The vote was 147 to 63.

Throughout the day the house accepted a steady stream of committee proposals with opposition melting before the appeals by committee members.

Washington (P)—Speaker Garner was successful again today in withstanding opposition to the ways and means committee's revised tax raising program.

Taking the floor at the first sign of opposition, the speaker called for rejection of an amendment by Representative Cannon (D., Mo.), strike out provisions which allow consolidated and affiliated corporate income tax returns.

Cannon said they permitted chain stores to drive independents out of business by having the profits from a paying store take care of the losses on one competing with independents.

Garner said the committee proposal levying a 15 per cent rate on consolidated returns would be adopted to see whether corporations with subsidiaries would continue to use consolidated returns.

He said $15,000,000 would be returned by the ways and means committee amendment.

Cannon withdrew his amendment after the speaker's opposition. Garner previously has fought consolidated returns.

The speaker then resumed its course of adopting the proposals of the ways and means committee, accepting one by one amendments adding millions of dollars to the government's revenue.

New assurance that the ways and means committee would count on reductions in federal expenditures of almost a quarter of a billion dollars were given today by members of the house appropriations and expenditure committees.

Estimated Slash

While the ways and means committee was drafting new amendments to the revenue bill to tap new sources of revenue, Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee, told newspapermen a slash of $243,000,000 in governmental expenses was not an extravagant estimate.

At about the same time, Representative Williamson of South Dakota, ranking Republican on the expenditures committee, said in a statement that a program had been outlined by that committee and the special economy committee which if enacted, would result in a saving of about $140,000,000.

Williamson said he expected that within the week he would be ready to take up the amendments which will result in substantial cuts.

"Others will follow," he said. "These bills will cover a wide range and result in other drastic reductions or total eliminations of certain activities considered by the committee as unnecessary."

The proposed salary cut for government employees has not been abandoned by the economy committee, he said, but has been laid aside for the time being to permit a more thorough study of what economies can be accomplished in other directions.

New Revenue Plans

While the revenue program calls for a saving of $243,000,000 in government expenses in order to balance the budget, Speaker Garner told newspapermen today that additional revenue proposals would be offered to take care of at least a part of that sum.

Already about $130,000,000 has been lopped off of six appropriation bills.

Byrns based his estimate on a $150,000,000 saving in the annual supply bills and between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 in salary reductions, with the remainder to be lopped off other expenses usually included in the deficiency appropriations.

"This is based wholly on what my committee will do on the appropriation bills," he said, "the senate has indicated its determination to cut appropriations 10 per cent below the house mark. This easily would account for a $243,000,000 saving without taking slashes into account."

Bank Failures Nearly Eliminated By Finance Corporation, Claim

AGENT ELATED BY RESULTS IN MIDWEST AREA

Says He's "Never Seen Anything to Compare" With New Confidence

Chicago—(AP)—Howard M. Sims, agent of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said today practical elimination of bank failures in northern Illinois and Indiana and southern Iowa and Wisconsin has been the effect of activities of the corporation's advisory committee for the area.

"I have never seen anything to compare with the renaissance of the confidence which has followed the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance corporation," he said. "It has been amazing."

One-third of the loans made by the corporation in its five weeks of existence have been approved for the portions of the four mid-western states, mainly going to banks, only eight or ten to insurance companies and none to railroads.

The advisory committee, Sims said, has passed to date on about 250 loans which have been approved by the corporations board of directors headed by E. G. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, which in all has given its sanction to between 700 and 750 loans.

Official estimates were unavailable, but estimates of the money pouring into this section from the corporation ranged from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Census figures show that between $3,000 and $4,000, or about one-tenth of the number of banks, are in the Seventh Federal Reserve district, which comprises the area described plus Michigan's lower peninsula.

As to why so large a portion of the loans have been concentrated in this section, Mr. Sims said that it was probably because of the intensive efforts made by corporation officials here to get banks to apply for loans. About 50 applications have been received by his committee, he said; one or two have been turned down because of insufficient security; the others are being investigated. Applications steadily increased, he said, from the beginning to last week's peak of 70. This was probably due, he explained, to the labor involved in gathering and organizing the figures which must accompany applications. This week only a few plans have been received.

Bank failures, figures published by the federal reserve headquarters here for last week show that of 494 bank failures this year, 153 of them have been for the Seventh district.

In discussing the sharp drop in failures, he cited the federal reserve figures:

For the nation: 2,292 bank failures in 1931; 494 thus far this year, 9 for the week ending March 18; 3 for the week ending March 25.

For the Seventh district: 633 bank failures in 1931; 153 this year; three for the week ending March 18; one for the week ending March 25.

The corporation has rescued several banks from emergency runs, Mr. Sims said, in one case transfer of $1,500,000 of $2,000,000 to a bank threatened with extinction. In other cases, where banks' deposits had fallen so low they could not make any profit, it took over the assets and lent enough money for the institution to go out of business by paying off all remaining depositors.

The advisory committee of the corporation for Iowa: W. H. Brennan, Grant McPherrin, E. F. Kauffman and C. W. Enyart, all of Des Moines; George J. Schaller of Storm Lake; Frank E. Everett of Council Bluffs; Van Vechten Shaffer of Cedar Rapids; Edwin W. Miller of Waterloo and A. P. Beck of Ottumwa.

For Wisconsin: Walter Kasten, Arthur H. Lindsey, John H. Pfeiffer, C. F. Kuhnmueller, all of Milwaukee; E. R. Esberg of Waukesha; P. P. McDermott of Watertown; William Mauthe of Fond du Lac; H. J. Hagg of Wausau, and H. A. Vanoven of Beloit.

URGES REGULATION OF BUSES AND TRUCKS

New York—(AP)—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, says regulation of trucks and buses is essential to the protection of the property of the railroad. He told the economic club last night that failure to regulate commercial highway competition leads to overproduction of transportation facilities "just as serious as that in agriculture or industry."

Paterson, N. J.—(AP)—A dramatic recital of the "kidnaping" of a young Paterson woman and the savage beating of her escort caused a "short-lived sensation here early today."

State and local police organized a frantic search for Miss Mily Baker, 23, when John H. Jeffs, Philadelphia, staggered into police headquarters, bruised and bleeding and told how two men with pistols had beaten and robbed the pair as they sat parked in an automobile in a lonely lane, and then carried off the girl.

They loaded her into their automobile, screaming and kicking, he said, and drove away.

For two hours police scoured in every direction seeking trace of the abductors. Description of the young woman, furnished by Jeffs, was broadcast and automobiles were stopped and searched.

It was while the search was most feverish that police learned Miss Baker was safe at her home here. She, too, told of being "abducted" but her story differed from that of Jeffs.

She said she and the Philadelphia man, a traveling salesman, had parked in a lane near Franklin lakes and that while there they had been held up. Two robbers took $55 from Jeffs, she said, and her handbag. They also carried away the keys to the automobile, she said.

She and Jeffs sat in the machine a while, she said, wondering how they would get back to the city. As they devised plans for starting the machine, she declared, two men drove up, forced them from the automobile, and severely beat her escort. They then forced her to accompany them, she said, and later she was returned to her home unharmed.

Both Jeffs and Miss Baker were questioned this morning in an effort to reconcile conflicting details.

Offer Plans to Swell Treasury

Congress weighed their plans for a graduated increase on estate taxes. The amendment to the revenue bill which Representative David Lewis (right) of Maryland submitted would, he estimated, yield a total revenue of $311,000,000. But his amendment was supplanted by another, offered by Representative C. William Ramsdell (left) of Iowa, which carried lower rates.

Arkansas Student Group To Visit Mine District

Frankfort, Ky.—(AP)—As two busloads of eastern students left the state after protesting to Gov. Ruby Laffoon their ejection from the southeastern Kentucky coal fields, another group from an Arkansas labor college announced plans to visit the mine area.

Koch, head of Common wealth college at Mena, Ark., said he and Harold Cox, instructor; Leo Grulion, New York newspaperman, and Sam Sandburg and Isaac Greenburg, students, would take relief supplies to Kentucky miners.

Koch announced they would leave Mena today, and come to Frankfort to ask Governor Laffoon for protection before proceeding to Bell and Harlan counties. County Attorney Walter B. Smith has announced Bell county officials will take no notice of future student invasions, leaving them to citizens to handle.

The eastern students were ejected because Mr. Smith said he had evidence they were affiliated with Communists. Koch, declaring members of his group were not Communists, said they would carry "copies of the bill of rights to deputized mine superintendents barring the highways."

A Pineville, Ky., citizens committee has invited 21 eastern ministers to the mine area.

U. S. LINES CUTS PASSENGER RATES

20 Per Cent Reduction Follows Similar Action at Brussels Conclave

New York—(AP)—The United States lines today put into effect reductions averaging 20 per cent in trans-Atlantic fares for all classes of passage on the ships Leviathan, President Roosevelt and President Harding.

The cut followed word that the Trans-Atlantic passenger conference meeting in Brussels had decided on a similar course. The U. S. lines is not a member of this conference.

A statement by the company said the downward revision "really goes very much further" than 20 per cent "as there will be no increase during the summer months."

The lowest first class rate for the Leviathan will now be $132 as compared with the former summer price of $265. A suite that cost $990 for two people in the summer has been cut to a year-round rate of $520.

On the President Roosevelt and Harding a flat reduction of 20 per cent was made, bringing a one way ticket to any British port down to $118, to Cherbourg $123 and to Hamburg $128. Round trip passage received a further reduction of 7 1/2 per cent.

Tourist rates on the Leviathan have been cut 20 per cent and third class tickets 10 per cent.

LITTLE CHUTE BOASTS LOW DELINQUENCY LIST

The Little Chute delinquent tax list this year is the lowest in five years, according to Anton Jansen, village president. The list this year is $35,000, while last year it was $1,737,112. The village did not allow tax payers an extension to July 1 on the basis of affidavits of inability to pay.

Paterson, N. J.—(AP)—A dramatic recital of the "kidnaping" of a young Paterson woman and the savage beating of her escort caused a "short-lived sensation here early today."

State and local police organized a frantic search for Miss Mily Baker, 23, when John H. Jeffs, Philadelphia, staggered into police headquarters, bruised and bleeding and told how two men with pistols had beaten and robbed the pair as they sat parked in an automobile in a lonely lane, and then carried off the girl.

They loaded her into their automobile, screaming and kicking, he said, and drove away.

For two hours police scoured in every direction seeking trace of the abductors. Description of the young woman, furnished by Jeffs, was broadcast and automobiles were stopped and searched.

It was while the search was most feverish that police learned Miss Baker was safe at her home here. She, too, told of being "abducted" but her story differed from that of Jeffs.

She said she and the Philadelphia man, a traveling salesman, had parked in a lane near Franklin lakes and that while there they had been held up. Two robbers took $55 from Jeffs, she said, and her handbag. They also carried away the keys to the automobile, she said.

She and Jeffs sat in the machine a while, she said, wondering how they would get back to the city. As they devised plans for starting the machine, she declared, two men drove up, forced them from the automobile, and severely beat her escort. They then forced her to accompany them, she said, and later she was returned to her home unharmed.

Both Jeffs and Miss Baker were questioned this morning in an effort to reconcile conflicting details.

who requested a senatorial investigation to come to the mine area themselves to view conditions. "As ministers of the gospel you are not Communists and... are welcome," the invitation said. County Attorney Smith was one of the signers.

The eastern students left Kentucky yesterday after passing through Ashland, announcing they would proceed to Washington to lay their request for investigation before a group of senators. They had protested to Governor Laffoon of Kentucky, and to Governor Horton of Tennessee, but both executives told them they had no authority in the matter.

ROOSEVELT IS FAR AHEAD IN PARTY FIGHT

Has Total of 111 Delegate Votes With Good Prospects for More

Washington—(AP)—Making great strides toward the Democratic Presidential nomination, Franklin D. Roosevelt today had a total of 111 delegate votes and immediate prospects of more, while his supporters moved to grasp the important post of keynoter at the national convention.

Iowa's 25 votes were filed in the Roosevelt column last night, along with those of Georgia, Minnesota, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Washington State. Maine Democrats today choose 12 delegates, in an atmosphere so friendly to the New York governor that the delegation is expected to be his even though unstructured.

The post of keynoter, or temporary chairman of the convention is to be filled next Monday in Chicago by the arrangements committee for the convention. Roosevelt men have settled upon Senator Barkley of Kentucky, who recently asked his state to vote for the New Yorker.

Roosevelt's opponents are centering on J. Edgar Hoover, chairman of the party's executive committee and exponent of the theory that the delegations to the convention should come there without instructions. Roosevelt supporters, despite Hoover's denials, have regarded the proposal as hostile. Roosevelt himself said his realization would disfranchise the party's rank and file and throw the nomination to the "trade and barter" of the leaders.

A study of the arrangements committee membership would seem to indicate the Roosevelt forces are in the majority, but there is a possibility John J. Raskob, national chairman, will push Hoover and a fight may result.

Back of these immediate developments there is sharing up Roosevelt's critical struggle for votes in the east where the supporters of Alfred E. Smith are waging a strenuous campaign.

The unusual suggestion was advanced yesterday by Gov. Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut, that, to prevent strife, the state's convention votes be divided between Smith and Roosevelt. Whatever happens there a contest appears certain for the big 36-vote delegation of Massachusetts.

All suggestions of Roosevelt men for Smith's withdrawal, direct or veiled, have gone for naught.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE MEET IN SKIRMISH

Tokio Forces Declare Enemy in Retreat After Brisk Engagement

Shanghai—(AP)—A sharp skirmish between Japanese and Chinese forces at Chiawungiao took place today, according to Japanese military authorities, punctuating a lull in the peace parleys which are slated to be resumed again tomorrow.

The Japanese said the Chinese were driven to the south side of Soochow creek, on the north side of which they were reported last week to have been digging trenches and erecting defenses. The Japanese notified British authorities then that drastic measures might have to be taken to force the Chinese to observe the limits fixed in General Uyeda's ultimatum of last February.

The Japanese peace negotiators, meanwhile, charged the parleys were being delayed because the Chinese delegates lacked responsibility and authority to make decisions and the Chinese countered with a charge that the Japanese were trying to break up the conference.

Chinese officials expressed strong resentment against the tactics of the Japanese, charging they were trying to throw responsibility for the deadlock on the Chinese.

"The fundamental issue is the withdrawal of the Japanese troops from Chinese territory," said a statement issued through the Chinese official Kuo-Min News agency. "But the Japanese refuse to negotiate for its realization. It seems they intend to maintain an army of occupation in the Chinese territory adjacent to Shanghai indefinitely."

The Chinese press featured reports that the peace conference was doomed to collapse. Other observers also expressed the belief that the breach between the negotiators was widening.

Five Japanese soldiers were wounded when two motor trucks on the way to the front lines struck submerged mines near Kating. The Japanese said the Chinese honeycombed a wide area in that section with explosives before they retreated.

The municipal police of Shanghai reported 51 civilians were killed and 216 wounded in the international settlement during the period of hostilities. Their survey showed, they said, that 214 projectiles fell within the settlement during the fighting, damaging 262 buildings. Approximately 436 persons were deprived of the means of subsistence, they said, due to the shutting down of industries in the settlement during the fighting.

TRY TO NAME DEAD MAN AS KIDNAPER

Denver Officials Attempt to Link Suicide With Bower Case

Denver—(AP)—With six witnesses having testified in the trial of three men charged with kidnaping Benjamin P. Bower, Denver bakery manager, the state sought today definitely to link Joseph C. Riley, former convict with the accused men.

Riley shot and killed himself when police attempted to arrest him for questioning in connection with the kidnaping.

Bower, who was freed without payment of the $50,000 ransom asked, identified a police photograph of Riley as the man who held him prisoner in a shack for five days after his abduction Jan. 19. Bower failed to identify Joe Pannell, Art Taylor and George Reed, the defendants.

Mrs. Bowers testified that Pannell "resembled one of the men" who forced their way into the Bower home the night of the kidnaping.

The state hoped to introduce the testimony of Mrs. Alice Larkin, who held a conversation with Riley after Bower was abducted. Mrs. Larkin resided two doors away from the shack where Bower was held captive.

Charles T. Mahoney, defense attorney, objected to Mrs. Larkin as a witness on the ground "a dead man can't testify." The court took the matter under advisement.

MELLENCAMP HEADS EDUCATION GROUP

State Teachers Colleges Association Elects New Officers

Madison—(AP)—F. J. Mellenkamp, member of the Milwaukee State Teachers' college faculty, is the new president of the Association of Wisconsin State Teachers Colleges.

He was elected at a business meeting of the association's biennial convention here last night. Walter Watson of the Whitewater State Teachers' college was elected vice president and A. J. Fox of the Eau Claire State Teachers' college was chosen secretary-treasurer.

At sectional meetings E. L. Walters, LaCrosse, was reelected chairman of the psychology and education section. Mr. Merrill of Superior, was elected chairman of the geography section and J. M. Russell, Platteville, chairman of industrial arts section.

Mr. Mellenkamp, chairman of the association's legislative committee, announced that the committee will be heard on the subject of budget cuts at the next meeting of the state emergency board.

"The committee feels," he said, "that Governor LaFollette and the board are sympathetic toward teachers' colleges and appreciate the work of the colleges, and it seems likely that the knife is not going to be used very deeply on teachers' colleges."

That the faculties of state teachers' colleges are far from perfect is indicated by the criticisms made by leaders in education, Edgar Riller, Platteville, told the association in an address which formed part of a report by the Milwaukee and Platteville colleges on "How May Instruction Within the Teachers Colleges be Improved?"

Mr. Riley said the faculties, according to leaders in education, lack ample preparation beyond the level of attainment of students; lack professional standing and lack alertness. He recommended that training for elementary teachers be extended to three and four year courses and that the least promising prospective students be eliminated gradually.

NEED COOPERATION IN FARM MILK POOLS, FARMERS ARE TOLD

75 Men Attend Gathering at Town of Leeman Hall Tuesday Evening

Need of 100 per cent cooperation in milk pool operations was stressed in addresses by Otto Rohm, Black Creek, W. M. Singler, Shiocton, and Gus Sell, Appleton, Outagamie-co agent, at a meeting of the Wolf River local, Wisconsin Milk Pool, at the town of Leeman hall Tuesday evening. Approximately 75 farmers were present.

"With the status of the American farmer now at such a low ebb, it is necessary that farmers organize to combat low prices," Mr. Rohm said.

Analyzing the present dairy situation, Mr. Singler said that farmers will not willfully dump their milk unless such a practice must be followed as a last resort. He said milk pools are not being organized to increase the price of milk to exorbitant levels, but to insure a fair profit for the farmer.

The benefits derived from any cooperative movement were outlined by Mr. Sell. He said such organizations gave farmers the opportunity of expressing their views on various problems, and that they are of considerable value socially.

A delegation of the Wolf River local organization is planning to attend a meeting of the Black Creek group in that village tonight. Delegates to the state meeting at Madison, April 7 and 8, will be selected.

PSYCHOLOGY LEADS TO RETURN OF TWO STOLEN GOLD COINS

Los Angeles—(AP)—Strategy and psychology have returned to H. I. Smith of Los Angeles, two gold coins presented him on his fiftieth wedding anniversary last February. They disappeared when he allowed a gypsy to "bless" them, while his fortune was being told recently.

Deputy Sheriff Frederick Wolf, so-called "gypsy expert" of the sheriff's office, circulated the story among local gypsies that possession of the coins would bring misfortune to anyone but their rightful owners.

Yesterday's mail delivered the coins to Smith from Alabama.

STUDENT FLAYS JAPAN'S POLICY TOWARD CHINA

Declares That Motive is Economic Solidification of Country

Denouncing Japan's policies toward China, with its recent results in Manchuria and Shanghai, Shiroto Tsuru, Japanese student at Lawrence college, contended that the underlying motive in Japan's recent sacrifice of life, prestige and money was economic solidification in view of a possible clash with Soviet Russia. He quoted a Japanese spokesman as saying, at the end of last year, that if Japan can control all the industry and commerce of Manchuria, she could stand at least 10 years of the complete economic boycott by other countries so far as food, daily necessities and raw materials are concerned.

In his scholarly address, the young foreign student outlined the reasons behind Japan's aggressiveness toward her oriental neighbor, and listed the four main conflicts involved in the present crisis: the Japanese internal economic situation, conflict between Chinese national capitalists in Manchuria and the Japanese capitalists who have interests in Manchuria; conflict among the powers interested in China, such as Japan, Soviet Russia, Great Britain, France, United States, Italy and Germany; and the conflict between capitalist nations and soviet nations, both Soviet Russia and Soviet China.

Scores Jap Policy

Like all those Japanese who think in terms of world peace, Tsuru expressed opposition to the imperialistic policy of the Japanese government in China. He berated the Japanese declaration that the invasions are for the benefit of the Chinese people and asked what right Japan had to promote happiness in China when in her own country there are two million jobless men, four million starving peasants, strikes and general disorders.

Outlining the events of the present situation, the speaker declared that the Manchurian operation had been planned for a long time and the Shanghai event was brought about to divert the attention of the world from Manchuria to Shanghai.

He agreed that the Manchurian crisis was started because of economic necessity, brought on by overpopulation, scarcity of natural resources, shrinkage of markets, but said that Japan was more eager to find markets for her goods than to secure the vast resources of Manchuria. And beyond these economic angles, the young speaker presupposed the war-preparation objective.

No National Unity

Refuting the assumption that there is a discrepancy between civil and military circles in Japan, he contended that the real danger which is undermining the basic structure of Japanese nation is the discrepancy between the government and the people, the lack of national unity. He foresaw the danger of the fascist regime in Japan, and spoke of the changing attitude of Japanese politicians toward the emperor.

He said that despite protest and diplomatic negotiations the seizure of the South Manchuria by Japanese armies is a completed fact and that it is evident that Japan is going to stay in the Shanghai region at least two or three months more.

"Japan has begun to realize that she wants to get something out of Manchuria, so she had better get away from Shanghai," he analyzed. "And of course it is almost impossible for Japan to get concrete results through Shanghai invasion without the consent of other powers."

TORNADOES GET START AS WARM AIR MEETS COLD

Twisting Winds as Sure a Sign of Spring as Arrival of Robins

BY F. E. COLTON
(Associated Press Science Writer)

Washington (AP)—Tornadoes, ripping a trail of death and damage through the south, have given blatan warning that spring is here.

The twisting winds, rough-housing along the edges of spring's steady procession northward, are as sure a sign of her arrival as the first robin, "all some or the first robin. They are most prevalent in March, April and May, says the United States weather bureau.

"Children Of Spring"

Tornadoes are children of spring born when warm spring winds moving north from the Gulf of Mexico come in contact with winter cold rear guard retreating toward Canada. Contrasts of temperature, greatest in spring, cause tornadoes, the weather bureau explains.

Tornadoes are eddies in the stream of a large storm area that results from these contrasting temperatures. The warm and cold air, meeting give rise to huge areas of low atmospheric pressure, hundreds of miles across, known as "lows." Air moves toward the centers of the "lows" in an anti-clockwise direction.

The tornadoes get their start when smaller streams of warm and cold air meet, like two trains passing each other on a double track line. Warm air between the streams rises, pulls in more air from the sides, and acquires a twisting motion from left to right.

The spin is always from left to right because warm air currents for some reason move north on the eastward side, and southbound cold winds on the west. As the air whirls in the tornado it grows colder, condenses the moisture within it and a funnel-shaped cold is formed.

Tornadoes usually are southeast of the center of the "low" of which they are a part.

The whirling wind in a tornado may be moving from 200 to 300 miles an hour but in the center the air is relatively calm. Tornadoes may last from one minute to five or six hours, and their path of destruction may vary in width from a few feet to half a mile.

Tornadoes are one kind of weather that the weather bureau never tries to predict, but Chief Forecaster Charles E. Mitchell of

Michigan Solons Debate Points In Brucker Relief Program

AUTO TAX PLAN MAY ENCOUNTER STRONG ATTACK

Legislators Have Varying Opinions on Methods of Meeting Needs

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—The administration's emergency program was before the special session of the legislature today in formal bills and form signals already were flashing around some of its major points. Members were favorable to measures that will reduce taxes, but they expressed a wide divergence of opinion as to the best method of approach. The issue which they point to as most likely to draw fire from Gov. Brucker's proposal that $6,000,000 be taken from the automobile weight tax to meet township road and city street requirements before it is returned to the counties; his plan to place school districts and counties under rigid supervision relative to school and road taxes, which some members claimed would violate their home rule rights, and his recommendation that an income tax amendment be submitted to the people.

Administration bills flooded into the session immediately following Governor Brucker's message yesterday. They provided for the return to the counties of additional automobile weight tax money, giving delinquent tax payments, easing delinquency in the enforcement of delinquent bank, slashing state building and payroll appropriations, limiting local taxes, giving the state administrative board great power to supervise certain local financial activities, advocating ratification of the federal "lame duck" congressional amendment and suggesting a state board to investigate defaulted real estate bond issues. Rep. William J. Williams, of Kenton, had in his pocket an administration resolution proposing the initiation of a state income tax amendment for submission to the voters next November.

Highway Measures

The administration highway bills, covering county tax relief, covert relief and so forth, were introduced by Senator Thomas B. Horton of Kalamazoo, administration whip in the senate. They provided: That an amount equal to the entire revenue from the sale of automobile license plates—approximately $2,000,000—be returned to the counties beginning in 1933, less some important deductions, which have been, and continue to be, centers of controversy. The Dykstra law, providing for the payment of $4,000,000 to the counties for the improvement and maintenance of streets, would be repealed and that amount would be paid out of the weight tax. The McNitt law appropriations for absorbing township roads, amounting to $2,000,000 this year, and increasing annually, also would be paid from the weight tax. The balance would go to the counties. This would leave a net gain to the counties of $4,000,000 this year. They now receive $10,000,000; they would get $14,000,000.

The highway measures would prohibit any county from spreading and collecting a road tax in excess of one-fourth of that permitted under present statutes, except by a vote of two-thirds of the board of supervisors. Construction under the cover of a highway law would be barred for five years. County road bonds could be refunded, where necessary, for a not more than 30 year term.

Bills covering the governor's school budget plans would make it mandatory for every school district to cut their budgets for the next three years 15 per cent below the amount they expended in the fiscal year ending in June, 1930.

Two Identifications For Man Murdered In Indiana

Evansville, Ind.—(P)—Dispute over identity of a mid-aged man beaten and stabbed to death yesterday near Mt. Vernon, Ind., today balked police efforts to find the slayer.

Mrs. Albert Johnson of Evansville, told officers the body lying in a Mt. Vernon morgue was that of her husband, age 32.

Mrs. George H. Claibourne, also of Evansville, who last night said positively she could not identify the body, early today said she had viewed it again and insisted the dead man was her son, Clifton Bruce Claibourne, 22.

Adding to complexity of the case the statement of Coroner John G. Newman at Mt. Vernon that Mrs. Claibourne had not seen the body since her first visit at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Meanwhile the body of a second man found slain near here yesterday had been identified by a brother as that of Alfred Butts, 32, of Henderson, Ky., and Charles Hamilton, 37, Negro taxi driver whose name and address were found written on a card in Butts' pocket, was under arrest at Henderson. Officers said they were convinced there was no connection between the two slayings.

Police investigating the Johnson-Claibourne mystery said the killing was done in an automobile reported stolen by Henry German, which was found splattered with blood and containing a shoe that matched one found on the body at Mt. Vernon.

German, a suitor of Claibourne's sister, said Claibourne had had access to his automobile. He told officers that Johnson and Claibourne had trouble over Johnson's wife, whom he said he had seen in the youth's company several times recently. Mrs. Johnson, however, denied she had been with Claibourne. Police said German told them Claibourne once had showed him an insurance policy for $2,000 on Johnson's life, naming Mrs. Johnson as beneficiary.

Loans are made for seed to farmers who have not enough security to enable them to apply to banks for loans.

Nine applications were received yesterday after the committee met. They will not be acted on until the next meeting. There have been 13 inquiries into details of the loans according to Gustav E. Selt, county agent, whose office is handling the applications.

$3,000 ENOUGH FOR BAND, SAYS CLUB PRESIDENT

City's Expenses Must Be Lowered, Breitung Tells Voters

Candidates for various city offices appeared at a meeting of the Fifth Ward Voters' club at Wilson Junior high school Tuesday evening, pleading for support in the election next week. Approximately 350 people attended the meeting.

An explanation of the band referendum was made by Rudolph Breitung, president of the voters club. A representative of the 120th Field Artillery band, who was to have spoken in behalf of that organization, failed to appear. It was pointed out, however, that at 8 o'clock Friday evening the band will play a concert at Wilson Junior high school at which time speakers will discuss the question.

Mr. Breitung explained that the Fifth Ward Voters' club is not opposed to the band or its personnel, but that the organization is convinced that $3,000 is an adequate city appropriation for maintenance of the musical organization. Under the old charter ordinance the appropriation for band aid can range from $3,000 to $10,000. Last year the organization received $5,100. Mr. Breitung stated:

Tribute to Bachman

Tribute to the memory of Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, who died suddenly at his home Tuesday morning, was paid by the Fifth Ward Voters' club at a meeting at Wilson Junior high school Tuesday evening. A vacant chair, decorated with black velvet and a large American flag, was placed in the speakers' row in honor of the late treasurer. Mr. Bachman was one of the Sixth ward voters' club Monday evening.

He said the amendment to this ordinance would establish a maximum of $3,000 in the city budget for band appropriation. Under the charter ordinance there are no stipulations which can prevent the band from getting any amount up to $10,000, he pointed out.

"With 242 needy families on the city's poor list, it is time that such city expenditures are reduced to a minimum if the public's charity work is to be carried out effectively."

A debate on the effectiveness of their respective administrations was conducted by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Albert C. Rule, candidates for mayor. Mayor Goodland pointed out that under his administration the city tax rate was reduced and expenditures held down. He said all this was done during the two most difficult years the United States has ever known, while the last two years of Mayor Rule's administration were the most prosperous in history.

Mr. Rule, who devoted most of his talk in a rebuttal of arguments presented by Mayor Goodland, pointed out that when the mayor talked about times being hard and city expenditures being reduced to a minimum, he was speaking in his (Mr. Rule's) behalf.

He said that prices on most commodities have dropped to bottom levels, and people aren't anxious to spend their money as a result, he said. Mayor Goodland was not obliged to meet the demands for many city improvements, because people are anxious to keep their taxes down.

Mayor Goodland paid tribute to the council which has been in office during the past two years.

"The council is the first in many years to work in harmony," he said. "Conditions have been much better since the vaudeville acts of three and four years ago have been eliminated."

Other speakers on the program were W. H. Vanderheyden and Harvey Priebe, aldermanic candidates; Elmer Scott and George Peotter, candidates for city assessor; Joseph Knox, who seeks the office of city treasurer; and Alfred Bosser, and Frank J. Johnson, who oppose each other in the race for city attorney.

PRINCESS CLAIMS 16 SMALL ISLANDS IN SEA OF SULU

Manila—(P)—Claim to 16 small islands in the Sea of Sulu near British North Borneo has been filed with the American and British governments, it was revealed today, by the Philippine Dayang, sister of the sultan of Sulu.

The princess asserts title to the islands in question was not settled by the Sultans treaty affecting Turtle Island and others nearby, signed several years ago, and that, therefore, ownership rests with her. The sultan himself signed away any claims he may have had in the Bates treaty with the United States in 1878.

The princess' claim was filed last December. It is being investigated by the legal staff of the governor general of the Philippines. There is no indication, however, that the claim is taken seriously in official circles, as the Sultans treaty was carefully drawn to settle the ownership of the maze of islets dotting the Sulu sea.

A number of such claims have been filed in the past of different Moro leaders affecting a large number of islands, even Borneo itself, which the Moros ruled for some six hundred years. The British and American officials attitude has been, however, that the treaties covered all contingencies.

BACHMAN FUNERAL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Governor LaFollette and Andrew MacDonald to Attend Rites

Governor Philip LaFollette and Andrew R. MacDonald of Wisconsin will attend the funeral of Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer and labor leader who died suddenly at his home here Monday morning. Services will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Lawrence Memorial chapel, with Dr. J. A. Holmes in charge. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

Scores of messages of condolence, among them telegrams from Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and Congressman George J. Schneider, have been received at the Bachman home.

The LaFollette family, directed by Mr. Bachman's son, Dr. Fred, said, "I am deeply grieved to learn of your father's sudden death. He was faithful friend and mine, and I shall miss his steadfast support of the Progressive cause. Mrs. LaFollette joins me in expressing our deepest sympathy. Congressman Schneider's message read, 'In the loss of your father I feel bound with you in grief and affection for he was one of my dearest friends.'"

Fred's maternal grandfather, Norman, died of cancer Monday morning, just a few days after he delivered a political speech before a gathering of Sixth ward voters. At the time of his death he was engaged in a campaign to re-election to the office of city treasurer, a position he had held for 14 years. Active in city, county and state politics for years, and an ardent supporter of labor unions for 22 years, Mr. Bachman's death is felt throughout the state.

Fragrances at half and at Appleton high school are at 8:30 a.m. in respect to Mr. Bachman.

sued after a conference with his associates. The statement read: "In order to bring our negotiations with supposed representatives of the kidnapers to a rapid conclusion, it was necessary that one of our party, comprising Admiral Burrage, Mr. Curtis and myself, journey to Hopeville to converse with Colonel Lindbergh."

"The naval airport graciously placed a plane at our disposal and I went to Philadelphia. We are to continue our work at the request of Colonel Lindbergh made personally by him. I was instructed to deliver a message of deep appreciation for the warm interest shown in the matter and profoundly hope that we may be successful."

Asked whether he carried on his trip anything which might be used in definitely identifying the kidnaped child, Dean Dobson-Peacock said that he took "only information" but that identification of the baby would not be difficult "when the proper time comes."

What steps are contemplated, other than the conference today, was not even hinted at by the negotiators. Mr. Curtis, who is reported to have been the first of the trio to be approached by the supposed representative of the kidnapers and who made a trip to an unknown destination last Saturday and Sunday, declined to say whether he remained optimistic and when asked if he planned to make another such trip, replied: "You know I can't say anything as to that."

An offer of Col. Charles H. Connelley, Norfolk hotel owner, to lend his yacht to the intermediaries if it should be needed to make a contact with the kidnapers was admitted but Mr. Curtis said he did not believe it would be necessary for them to take advantage of the offer.

FIND COMBINATION TO CITY'S VAULT

Safe Opened by Someone Other Than Fred Bachman for First Time in 14 Years

For the first time in 14 years the city vault was opened today by someone other than Fred Bachman, city treasurer, who died suddenly at his home here Monday morning. The combination known only to Mr. Bachman, the city vault remained closed until the combination was located late this morning.

In the presence of the Bachman family, city and bank officials, an attorney, and a representative of the bonding company, the city deposit box in the First National bank was opened this morning. In it was found the combination to the city vault, making it possible for Mayor John Goodland, Jr., to reopen the safe in the treasurer's office.

Although the vault is open, the treasurer's office will remain closed for the time being, and all business will be conducted through the city clerk's office. The procedure to be followed in re-establishing the business routine in the treasurer's office has not yet been determined. Because the position will be filled at the general election next Tuesday it is improbable that an appointment will be made, city officials reported.

RESUME HEARING AGAINST PEABODY ESTATE TRUSTEES

John H. Neller, Appleton, Explains Accounting System Used

John H. Neller, secretary and trustee of the estate of George F. Peabody was the only witness called this morning in the hearing instituted by the Y. M. C. A. the city of Appleton, the board of education and Lawrence college to audit trustees of the estate and disallow reports 10 and 11 for the years 1929 and 30.

Mr. Neller spent the two hour session explaining the system of accounting used by the trustees in handling estate affairs. Judge D. E. McDonald, county judge of Winnebago, is presiding. Besides Mr. Neller the trustees are John H. Coulter and Alfred W. Hoyt, both of Chicago.

The original suit seeking the ouster of the trustees and disallowance of their Report No. 10 was started by the Y. M. C. A. At a preliminary hearing several weeks ago before Judge D. E. McDonald, Oshkosh, who was called to sit in the case in place of Judge Fred V. Henneman, the college, city and board of education, three new parties to the suit were represented. At that time they pointed out they wanted an opportunity to examine books of the Pettibone-Peabody company before determining whether they would join with the Y. M. C. A. in its petition.

A supplementary petition, filed in county court two weeks ago added the names of the three beneficiaries to that of the Y. M. C. A. as plaintiff and it also made further allegations of misrepresentation and misconduct on the part of the trustees.

BELOIT BEATS NEENAH, 25-17

Haire made a charity toss and Block counted on a long side shot from the field.

Fouled by Bell as the second half opened Jorgensen made the try and O. Swinehart came through with a long shot to give Beloit a 11 to 10 lead. Haire evened the count on a free throw and Neubauer put Neenah in the lead 13 to 11 with a medium field goal. Neubauer dribbled down the side, stopped short and sent the ball in a beautiful curve that brought it through the hoop with a swish.

Schlagenhauf counted a field goal and Connors a free throw to put Beloit in a 14 to 13 lead as the third period ended. Both teams were playing desperately, for a substantial lead in the third quarter but both had to be content with a point or two for just a minute or so at a time.

The fatal fourth period for Neenah started when Jorgensen heaved a one handed shot from under the basket to give his team a 16 to 15 lead. Connors then dribbled in under the basket and made another field goal.

He was fouled in the attempt and made the charity toss good. Neenah's scoring in the last period was limited to Block's long field goal. Swinehart followed Block with a field goal to give Beloit a much needed four point lead and Connors' two field goals in rapid succession put the game on ice.

The Neenah five gave a good account of themselves throughout the game. Bell, center, was superior to Jorgensen who has been mentioned as an all-state center possibility. Bell ruined Beloit's center pivot play time and again and led the offense. Neubauer, showed the fans some clever ball handling even though he only sank one field goal.

FRED E. BACHMAN
In the death of Fred E. Bachman, Appleton has lost a valuable citizen. His influence in labor circles and in political life has left a deep impression upon our city and his worth perhaps will be more appreciated in retrospect. Mr. Bachman's most important contribution to the community no doubt was his stabilizing influence upon the relations between labor and employer. Always a firm believer that the laborer is worthy of his hire, and a staunch defender of the right of the working man to organize for obtaining the maximum in comfortable working and living conditions, he nevertheless had the respect and admiration of those who employ labor, because of his honesty and his fair dealing. While insisting always upon the rights of labor, he also understood in a marked degree the problems of the employer and his effort always was directed toward reconciling differences so that both labor and employer would benefit in a maximum degree from their arrangements. The esteem in which Mr. Bachman was held in Appleton is attested by his long term as city treasurer. For fourteen years he was supported at the polls as freely by the business and professional elements as by labor. An experienced and adroit politician, Mr. Bachman was a fair fighter and many of his bitterest political foes were numbered among his staunchest personal friends. His ability as a political leader was recognized in state as well as local political circles and no doubt he might have been well rewarded for his political efforts had he so desired. Mr. Bachman's death leaves a vacancy in the community difficult to fill and no one regrets his passing more than the men and women for whom he had worked so assiduously for many years.

"KIDNAPING AND COCKTAILS"
An interesting debate has run between the New York Herald Tribune, which supports Mr. Hoover on everything but prohibition, and the Christian Science Monitor, which supports Mr. Hoover and prohibition, concerning the former's assertion that the real business of underworld gangs "began as a bi-product of the illicit liquor traffic" and the latter's challenge of that assertion. The Monitor however agrees that the great funds going into criminal hands and used for the corruption of officials and the handling of farflung and expensive plans that sometimes cover months of time and the expenditure of thousands of dollars before bearing fruit, "presents probably the most serious question that has been raised as to the wisdom, or rather the timeliness of the prohibition method of dealing with the liquor evil" but the Monitor returns to the old, old rut in the claim that the ones responsible for turning these profits over to crime are those who buy the illicit liquor and that "the lawful course is for all the states to attack not the law, but its violation, and to fail in line with enforcement and observance." We are getting to the point when a leading exponent of prohibition admits the claim of the wets "that the serious thing is in the illicit profits going to crime."

And we are getting right out on the sharp point when we see that the only solution suggested is to get the people to quit buying liquor. For 14 years the effort has been to get them to quit buying liquor and they buy more of it every day than the day before. During these 14 years America has waited patiently for someone to devise a system to force or induce the flower of obedience to bloom but it acts like a century plant. The Monitor is sincere, and therefore respected, but prohibition is inevitably bound up in the promises made by its professional advocates when the country accepted it, and the sad and despairful bankruptcy of those promises. Prohibition was to wipe out our jails, eradicate vice and crime, abolish poorhouses, and almost do away with asylums. If, after 14 years of trial we find that Crime is actually gaining an ascendancy in the country shall we continue the experiment another 14 years until its position has become impregnable?

"INDUSTRY ABANDONS WISCONSIN"
Under the above title the Chicago Tribune recently published an editorial seeking to expose the loss that has come to Wisconsin because of the industries that have quit the state, are in process of quitting, or declare they will quit as soon as possible. Criticism of Wisconsin from Illinois may suggest a comparison of the virtues and drawbacks of the two states with a conclusion quite unpalatable to Illinois. But retaliation of that sort is hardly worth while because the laws enacted or the course pursued by any state constitute a fair subject of discussion and criticism elsewhere in the Union. The Tribune has developed a large mass of facts from which we select the statement of the J. I. Case Company of Racine that, covering a period of twenty years, such company has paid more in taxes than it has paid to its stockholders in dividends on their investments. That is a staggering statement. But the Tribune rushes to the conclusion that it is an indictment of Wisconsin whereas it is an indictment of the extravagance of all government. In choosing a twenty-year period the Case Company was both fair and wise because it takes a long period of time to get a correct perspective of any industrial picture. Picking out a year here or there, in prosperity or depression, as might suit one's fancy, will tend to confusion instead of making for a just conclusion. The Case Company of course pays income taxes but it pays them to the federal government as well as Wisconsin and must pay them to the former regardless of the state in which it is domiciled. It also pays real estate taxes on its huge plants, but that too would be demanded in any state in the Union, and in some higher than the rate paid in Wisconsin. And yet this complaint disclosed a fact not to be missed by a single citizen. People generally take little account of the vast losses that are suffered in industry nor the extreme hardship encountered in building an industry to the day that it may stand on its own legs. A survey published some years ago covering a period of fifty years of industrial and business corporations in Wisconsin disclosed the astonishing fact that over 80 per cent of them either voluntarily liquidated or were forced into bankruptcy. Well might a man declare: "You may have all the profits of industry if you give me a sum equal to its losses." The difficulty arises, and the history of the Case Company discloses it, because our income taxation laws take no account of past losses. Men may mortgage their homes and their shirts in order to balance the losses of industry, year after year, only to find that as soon as they make a profit, slight or otherwise, the law exacts its toll. If they mention their losses of previous years, the law coldly declares, "Forget it." Wisconsin made an attempt some years ago to smooth out this bitter hardship by creating a three year average upon which to pay taxes but that provision has been repealed, although the repeal is not effective for another year. The position of the Case Company may be best understood by the man who buys a house for investment purposes, paying $5,000 therefor, and renting it for $500 a year, only to find that his real estate taxes take more than half of his gross receipts. That condition is but in small part a reflection upon Wisconsin. It is a reflection upon the theory of all income tax laws and it makes some disclosures concerning extravagance in government for the Case Company has been among the successful ones. It should too bring to the close attention of home owners this proposition: Industry has been paying a large share for the support of government, and over a long period of years it pays a higher percentage than we have been led to believe from the political platform.

THE POST-CRESCENT
MORE and more are we becoming a fatalist. Monday we knew darned well it would happen... sure, we beat Spring to the draw... took off the earmuffs and galoshes... hung the overcoat in the closet... dug out the topcoat and traded the fur cap in for a spring bonnet... last year's... we greeted mankind in the spring regalia... sure enough, Tuesday dawned (we didn't see that part of it) cold and dreary... the weather prediction was correct—it said cloudy... it usually is correct when it contains bad news... the first robin this year is entering suit against the weather bureau... March came in like a lion... betcha dime it goes out like one... hope we lose the bet...
Read about a poultryman down east whose comparatively small flock of high-grade hens was producing about thirty-five eggs a day. At present prices that's about... well, how does he feed the hens? Anyway, over in good old Russia, eggs are now selling for forty cents per each. Don't count your chickens before they're hatched in Russia. Sell 'em.
Things must be getting back to normal again. The boys down in South America—Peru, we believe, but it doesn't make much difference—are having for themselves another revolution...
Enamelled hair—to match the new gowns—has become the nerts in some localities. Whid out your papa's paint brush, Tillie, match up that lavender gown...
Think of all the new business for the painting trade. (Cheer up folks, it isn't done with real paint.)
Tsk, tsk and a couple of tsk, tsk. Spring is here, violets are blooming, puppy love is breaking out and STILL no contributions for this mecca of the intelligensia. (Post-Mortem, to YOU)
"Woman in Chains," is the name of a new book. But don't worry, the K'l dears are never in chains very long. No matter WHAT they do, they need not powder their noses, shed a few tears in court and the jury always lets 'em off with a slap on the wrist. Or a request for their telephone numbers.
They picked up a gent in Chicago the other day and hauled him off to the bastille. He had a lot of criminal gadgets in his car, but he had a nice explanation for each one. The blackback he carried in case of a fight, the ignition jumper to use in case he lost his keys, the glass cutter so he could cut a window and open his car in case he lost his door key, the jummy so he could break into his own house if he lost his key, the lead pipe so he could make plumbing repairs if something went wrong at home.
But he didn't have a habeas corpus writ, so they locked him up.

DISCOVERY
We have lost the foolish notions which have cluttered deep the past, We used to think that money was a pleasure that could last, We harried fortune against thieves who lived to prey, But the world went topsy turvy and the dollars slipped away.
Time was by silk and broadcloth we were very much impressed, We thought it proof of courage that man was richly dressed, But we've had two years of hardship and now only brave men smile, And we've learned that faith and friendship are more permanent than style.
Once we gave our hearts to splendor and we thought we ought to roam, Long we fancied Life's great conquests must lie far away from home, But the storms of trade swept o'er us and we found our triumphs vain, And we're back beside the fireplace singing simple songs again. By a majority of no less than 1,000 votes, Thomas H. Ryan was elected municipal judge of Outagamie-co at the election the previous day. Glen Morse, clerk of the circuit court, had moved to the country on a farm about three miles from the city. Frank Bellow left that morning for Chicago where he expected to remain for some time. F. L. Police were conducting a sweeping investigation in Green Bay that day to locate the person who threw a bomb into the midst of an audience of 300 persons at a church during a prohibition rally by William E. Mrs. Robert Wolter and son were spending a few days in Chicago. Mrs. A. Agrell, Mrs. F. J. Foetzal, and Mrs. F. J. Vander Linden were guests at the home of Mrs. O. E. Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

CHEMICAL OBLITERATION OF HEMORRHOIDS
Hemorrhoids (piles) are essentially varicose (dilated or enlarged) veins in the rectum. The hemorrhoidal veins are a network of veins conveying blood from that portion of the alimentary tract thru the great portal veins (liver) into the right side of the heart, whence it is pumped into the lungs. This direct communication with the portal circulation explains the effect of any engorgement or congestion of the liver, as from overeating, gourmandizing, and neglect of exercise, upon the hemorrhoidal veins. Incidentally, belly breathing or the natural increase in breathing that occurs with vigorous exercise, work or play of any kind acts as a direct massage upon the liver and gall-tract and indirectly helps to prevent or cure hemorrhoids.
In the first place, a considerable share of all complaints of "piles" are due to constipation. That is, if the patient complaining of "piles" is properly examined by the physician, in something like 40 per cent of cases it is found that there is some condition other than piles present. So it is obvious that any one who "tries" a pile remedy or treatment without the formality of proper medical examination and diagnosis is trifling with the trouble, and often this proves extremely painful, expensive or even fatal trifling. We are not suggesting here what does all the victim if it isn't piles. We'll leave that for the physician to determine.
When I was a young, and as you may readily imagine, a conceited practitioner, I expended considerable energy and breath trying to persuade nearly every patient with troublesome piles to submit to the radical operation for cure. Once in a while my efforts were fruitful and I did the clamp and cautery operation or let some better advertised surgeon do it, with what does all the considered satisfactory results. At least most of the patients gave me a wide berth for a year or two after the operation. They must have been free from attacks of piles—or else not so keen to have 'em cured again. Had any one suggested at that time that injection treatment might be at least as satisfactory as the radical surgical method in some such cases, I would have called him unpleasant names... because THEORETICALLY such injection treatment was dangerous.
THEORETICALLY the injection treatment or chemical obliteration of varicose veins in the legs or elsewhere was dangerous too. Practically, we have learned from many thousands of cases so treated, that this modern method is infinitely safer than the best surgical treatment.
PRACTICALLY, likewise, a few progressive, clear-thinking physicians have learned that similar treatment of varicose veins in the rectum is not only safe but at least as satisfactory as the very best surgical treatment.
TECHNICALLY—ah, here is the crux of the question—the technique of this treatment is as large a factor in its success or failure as is the technique employed in the diathermy extirpation of infected tonsils. If the doctor is a know-nothing and feels he can do these things without proper clinical bedside or office instruction by a colleague skilled in the method, well, that's bad luck for the victims.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Weeping Sineu
I had weeping sineu on my wrist for over 30 years. Twice I had it broken, but it always came back. Then I tried the cold water cure... I began pouring a small stream of very cold water on the lump as long as I could stand it, half a dozen times a day. It would make the whole arm ache to the shoulder. But in about three weeks the lump disappeared, and it has never returned after 13 years. (Mrs. N. E.)
Answer—I had a small one on one wrist for many years. No breaking treatment for mine! Occasionally I seriously considered surgical excision of the sac. But at last the thing cleared up spontaneously. So we can't conclude that the cold water cure is effective. Breaking the sac under the skin by a sharp blow with the back of a book, has brought

The Milk Pool
Editor Post-Crescent: It appears that there are two milk organizations being organized in the state of Wisconsin. Both of which have the same aim.
It might be well for all concerned that these two organizations unite at the earliest possible moment. The organization of which I will express my views, is known as Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool.
The principles of this organization, are I believe, the best that have thus far been presented.
The Milk Pool organization is interested in the price of milk and cream at the Dairy farm. Only its purpose, aim and object is to bargain collectively for the milk and cream produced by the members in order to obtain a fair price for the same, said fair price to be determined on a basis of a fair average cost of production plus a reasonable profit for the producers.
It is further proposed to join with the Organized Producers in other states and form a National Milk Pool for the purpose of stabilizing the marketing of milk and prevents unfair practices in the sale and distribution of milk and dairy products.
In plain English the farmer will be placed on an equal basis with all other business. It is a well known fact that when the farmer is prosperous, so is the whole country. If the farmer got his honest and just dues for the next six months, it is my belief that the depression would be a thing of the past.
Let the farmer prosper and he buys machinery, autos, lumber, paint, trucks thereby starting manufacture. They employ labor and once more the wheel starts to roll and every body is happy. You kill the farmer and you kill the country.
The other organization known as the "Dairy Union" I understand wishes the government to set the price of milk for the farmer.
I believe that most of the farmers have had a plenty of the sort of help they have received from our government.
The head of our nation Mr. Hoover made the statement that if the farmer ever got his just due, he would have to organize and get it himself.
Every time the government attempts to help agriculture, it creates new offices and more highly salaried men, thereby raising taxes. And when Uncle Sam gives his friends such jobs Mr. Farmer, he pays some salary. We sometimes see things in the press like salaries of $150,000 per year for the President of the Farm Relief Board.
No Mr. Farmer, keep within the law, be fair and just, but keep the government out of the Dairy Pool.
We can figure over cost of production, and do so far better than those who wear their pants shiny sitting at desks figuring ways and means of spending over tax money.
The International Harvester Co., does not ask the government to put a price on its farm machinery. Nor do they bargain with you. They say to you, it is so much, take it or leave it.
We can not make conditions worse. We must now either sink or swim. By joining together, uniting as one, we can save the ship. If we do not, we are lost.
Some will say it can't be done. But it can be done and at present looks very favorable.
The Milk Pool aims to furnish clean, pure, properly cared for milk or cream. It can be sold to any one and after it leaves the farm, we are no longer interested. In other words we will attend to our own business, and keep our nose out of the other fellows.
Farmers are receiving from 85c to $1.00 per cwt. The consumer pays from $4.00 to $6.00. No wonder some of the big Milk Corporations payed an income tax on $100,000,000 after paying the largest salaries and making all the over head costs possible.
It costs $1 to join the Milk Pool and you get a paper which is devoted to the Milk Pool interest. Fifteen cents goes to the head office to help pay expenses and 35c stays in the local unit.
Business men, bankers, merchants who are looking for prosperity should join the Milk Pool and get hold of the rope on the same end and pull.
Respectfully,
E. R. BOWERMAN, JR.
A Boost For Beck
Editor Post-Crescent— Now that the oleomargarine question seems to be settled and the distinguished commissioner of markets, the Honorable J. D. Beck, seems to be still at large in spite of court, procedure, contempt charges, etc., it would seem to some of us that he should now be appointed by Governor La Follette to fill the vacancy as a member of the state tax commission. It will be recalled that copies of his income tax reports received wide publicity not so long ago when he was a candidate for governor as a Progressive. This report showed how he had received approximately $30,000 income and without any family except a wife, never paid a dollar of tax from the time the income tax law was passed. He surely had a wonderful system of making out his report and as a member of the Tax Commission ought to be able to pass his system on.

GERMANS ARE STOPPED
On March 30, 1918, more cheering news came from the 49-mile battle front in Flanders. Desperate assaults on French and British positions by fresh German divisions were repulsed with great loss to the attackers.
This was the first day since March 21, when the great drive began, that main positions had been held and was the first indication that at last the great German attack had been substantially stopped.
Minor gains were made on the sector held by the French, but these were considered of little value.
Paris was bombarded again by the long range gun, eight being killed and 37 wounded.
The Netherlands government protested seizure of Dutch ships by the Allies. Holland had refused the offer of the Allied governments for her ships, only to have them seized on the order of President Wilson for use in carrying food and supplies to France and England.

DIFFICULT TO CUT BIG ITEMS FROM BUDGET

"Untouchable" Funds Provide Great Problem in Efforts at Reduction

(In this, the third of a series of twelve articles on Balancing the Budget, David Lawrence tells of the big items usually called "untouchable" and sponsored by large groups and organizations.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—Should the federal government conduct a big welfare agency? What difference is there so far as government obligation is concerned between relief for the eight million unemployed who are in economic distress and the four million war veterans many of whom have jobs and yet receive regular compensation from the government? The latter, of course, had war service and the theory is that the federal government assumes the care of its soldiers and sailors after every war and is now paying in adjusted compensation for war service. In the present depression it has been argued that a federal dole to any citizen is wrong and that the states and cities should provide for those in distress. But because of war tradition the federal government does pay regularly sums to able bodied war veterans and conducts the biggest welfare agency in the world. Is this an obligation of the federal government, or is it a responsibility of the state? The latter have spent relatively small items for soldier bonuses.

If it is agreed that this item is "untouchable" in the federal budget, and most congressmen think so because they believe the veterans organizations have the power to defeat them, then the question turns on whether the government spends its dollars for the veterans efficiently.

Sentiment has much to do with the spending of money for personal relief. The government is not like a private business organization which can seek a profit on every dollar spent. In private welfare work, there is a constant overhauling in order to get work done at a minimum expense.

Whether the Veterans' Administration is efficiently administered does not depend, however, on that particular bureau but on what congress tells that bureau to do.

Here again we have the legislative body setting forth the sums that shall be spent and leaving it, of course, to an administrative bureau to carry out without much discretion of its own as to whether a particular expenditure is worth while. There are complaints from time to time that many men who are receiving hospital care are also receiving compensation allowances.

Congress has always felt loath to reduce expenses for veterans. Public opinion on this subject has never crystallized to the point of interfering with the gradual increase of appropriations for veterans' purposes.

National Protection
National protection, which includes all Army and Navy expenses, runs now about $700,000,000. The question of cutting this depends upon foreign policy, as well as the attitude of navy leagues, patriotic societies and others who feel that the most important thing the United States can do in the troubled world is to build up her navy to treaty strength and to maintain a sufficient military reserve to meet all contingencies. With Japan disregarding the Kellogg-Briand treaty and embarking in her own way in the far East, the advocates of national defense insist that they have been vindicated. What constitutes an efficient army or navy, however, is something else again.

Congress has given relatively little attention to the making of an efficient Army or Navy with the amount of money that has been spent from time to time. It is true that more money is spent to obtain the same results in the American Army and Navy than in any other military or naval establishment in the world. This, however, is because Congress insists that American soldiers and sailors shall be better paid than those of other countries. Also the costs of subsistence are higher. It is at any time a naval shore station is to be dismantled, there is always political pressure to maintain it. These are difficulties confronting anyone who wishes to cut the military and naval budget, assuming even that it is desirable to do so from a foreign policy standpoint.

Economic Development
We come then to the item of economic development and plant equipment. This amounts approximately to $124,000,000. Public improvements and control of the public domain absorb $135,000,000 of this sum. The postal service takes $150,000,000. This is the deficit incurred in operating the whole postal establishment. Other items under the head of economic development include $23,000,000 for promotion of commerce and industry, $5,000,000 for air transport, about $200,000,000 for agriculture, $10,000,000 for labor and $9,000,000 for immigration and naturalization regulation, while science and research take $25,000,000 more.

The farm organizations have better than a majority behind them in both houses for agricultural appropriations. This is another "untouchable" unless a difference of opinion arises as to the effectiveness of an expenditure.

The test of every one of these items is whether they accomplish the purpose for which they are set up and also whether they are in the "national interest." Nobody has defined "national interest" except the sponsors of particular appropriations who always feel that whatever they propose is in the national interest. If we eliminate from the economic development classification the plant equipment, namely buildings and improvements, about $500,000,000 is left. Much of this, practically $150,000,000, is due to the post office department. This means that American business and the average citizen do not pay enough postage or does not pay directly for the benefits received from the postal service.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"It would be a good restaurant, if they'd only wash their spinach."

Some of the branches of the postal service pay for themselves. But it all depends on what system of cost accounting is maintained and how much is charged to general overhead of the establishment. The question of how much the post office system does for American business and the development of American production and distribution is an intangible which cannot be measured except in general terms. The gross business of the United States runs into many, many billions of dollars. It could not be carried on without communication service and the only question is whether this can be made self-sustaining and how revenues shall be appropriated so that it can be put on a balanced basis.

Political Pressure
As for the other economic development services, some of them, regulatory and some of them promotional, this is a field in which a re-examination of every expenditure can be made with profit. This does not mean they will be made. Political pressure is behind nearly every one of the expenditures. The average congressman takes the view that to spend $350,000,000 for economic development including agriculture and other business interests of the nation, is not an extravagant amount. Conversely he does not look at the item of welfare expenditure with any feeling that he would dare to reduce it even if he thought it should go down.

Any effort to make economies depends entirely on the approach to each one of the major classifications. How much welfare work should the federal government do? What shall be its policy on national protection? Is the present national defense adequate and if it is can the same amount of protection be secured at less money? As for economic development, shall private industry bear a larger share of the cost of promotion, or can the government do more economically that which it is argued would cost private industry many times as much to do?

Tendency to Spend
These are controversial points on which there has been relatively little discussion in past years. The tendency has been to spend for what appeared to be worthy objects. Expenditures for buildings and public improvements have been an age-old matter of discussion. Years ago public improvements were always looked upon as a species of pork-barrel legislation, but nowadays they have been urged as a means of creating jobs for the unemployed.

employed. So there is a conflict of purpose with respect to expenditures for public works. This, however, may not continue very long because there is rapidly growing up the idea that business revival is not going to be obtained by the expenditure of more government funds.

A re-examination of government expenditures by function, objects of expenditure, and a detailed list of the purposes for which money is expended—far more minutely than at present obtainable from the budget figures—is going to be one of the ultimate results of the present discussion of economies on the budget. (Tomorrow's article will deal with the troubles of States with their budgets.)

A BOOK A DAY

By Bruce Catton

Vina Delmar, who disturbed some people and pleased some others with "Bad Girl," gets just a little bit beyond her depth in her newest novel, "Women Live Too Long."

In this book she undertakes to show that women are always just unlucky enough to survive her hour of greatest happiness. If one would die on the peak, looking into the promised land, it would be all right. But, says Miss Delmar, one can't—not, at least, if one is a woman.

Her book starts in fine style. There are two brief sketches to substantiate the thesis, and then the main story begins: the story of the daughter of a vaudeville star, who tries in vain to follow in her father's footsteps and who, just when she has given up all hope, discovers that she is a first-rate actress and becomes a big star.

She marries a vaudeville hooper, and for a time she leads a gorgeous life. To be sure, the poor husband has rather a tough life, for he can't win any fame or success on his own hook; but at last he, too, gets a break, and goes to Chicago to star as the male lead in a musical show. And then comes trouble. In Chicago he does a bit of cheating, and it comes out, and the poor actress finds, just as you know she would, that she has lived too long.

Up to the point where the hooper goes to Chicago, the story is credible and moving. But at that point it breaks down. The two leading characters cease to be appealing and human and become stuffed shirts in whose actions we cease to believe. Miss Delmar twists her story out of shape too sharply. The climax fails to carry any conviction.

STUDIES BUSINESS METHODS AT COLLEGES

Ralph J. Watts, business manager of Lawrence college, recently returned from a two weeks trip on which he studied business methods and types of management in colleges throughout the midwest and far west.

Mr. Watts was particularly impressed with the methods of management in two of the colleges which he visited. The Cooperative Managers Association of Oregon State College at Corvallis, Ore., proved especially interesting, as did the methods of management used at the State University of Montana at Missoula. The plans of these colleges are being carefully studied by Mr. Watts, with a view of comparing them with the methods used at Lawrence.

MISS LUECKER IN RECITAL AT PEABODY HALL

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Miss Arlene Luecker soprano, a postgraduate student from the studio of Dean Carl J. Waterman, who appeared in recital at Peabody hall Tuesday evening.

Miss Luecker's program was comprised of selections which displayed to advantage her flexibility of voice and rare interpretative gifts. The first group, featuring two songs by Handel and "Pavane" by Liszt, was "Wind" by Bach gave convincing evidence of the singer's careful musicianship and her ability to interpret the true character of classic song forms.

The group of French songs including among others, "Pavane" by Liszt, "L'heure Eternelle" and "Valse Dansez Marquis" by Lereaux was exceptional. The group of French songs including among others, "Pavane" by Liszt, "L'heure Eternelle" and "Valse Dansez Marquis" by Lereaux was exceptional.

STEAMSHIP LINES MAY CUT PASSENGER RATES

Brussels—Representatives of the principal passenger steamship lines met here today to discuss reduction of passenger rates across the Atlantic.

The agenda of the conference was closely guarded but it was known that certain lines were prepared to press for a considerable slash in fares with a view to increasing travel during the coming summer tourist season.

The alignment in favor of reduction was understood to include the American and two British lines while a reduction was opposed by the German, the Canadian, the French, the Danish and the Italian group.

These latter, in opposition, con-

GETTELMAN SEES NEW LEGISLATIVE CALL

Manitowish—(P)—State Senator Bernhard Gettelman, Milwaukee, speaking in behalf of regular Republican candidates for delegates to the national convention, told an audience here last night that Governor LaFollette may call another special session of the legislature in an attempt to get the farmer vote, which is now lost to him because of political measures.

"It is a generally recognized fact that the Progressives of Madison are in a weakened political condition and any call for a special session later this year will be used for nothing but political purposes to strengthen the tattered politicians," the senator said.

"The laboring man of Wisconsin has nothing to gain from a special session. The eight-hour day and minimum wage laws were voted down by the Progressives at the last special session, so what can the state expect but some more selfish politics? Labor can no more see the return of beer through the Norris dyes than the man in the moon."

tended a cut in rates would result only in loss of revenue increasing the number of passengers carried.

Other questions of mutual interest were also up for discussion at the meeting. W. H. Roper, director of the North Atlantic conferences of lines here, said that no great difficulties were expected to arise.

TELEGRAPH FIRM MUST PAY TAXES

Northwestern Telegraph Co. of Wisconsin Liable, Commission Holds

Madison—(P)—Back in 1881 the Western Union Telegraph company leased the lines of the Northwestern Telegraph company of Wisconsin for 99 years and agreed to pay direct to the stockholders of the latter company $150,000 annually.

The state tax commission has ruled that the Northwestern company, as a result of that agreement, has been earning income and must pay state income taxes from the year 1927 when a section affecting telegraph companies was added to the statutes.

The Northwestern company filed a return for the years 1927 to 1930 inclusive but state that it had received no income during that period and therefore no taxes were due.

The tax commission looked over the return, made an audit, and decided this was not the case. It made an assessment of back taxes against the company, from which an appeal was taken and the commission has now reaffirmed the decision.

The commission figured its assessment by taking the average of the ratios of poles and miles of wire of the Northwestern company in Wisconsin to the total miles of poles and wire and taxed a portion of the payments made by the Western Union to Northwestern stockholders accordingly.

The company's sole contention was that it had no income. It argued that the agreement under consideration gave to the Northwestern stockholders a vested right in the rentals to be paid them; that it was enforceable in their own names and could not be changed by either company; and that the payments were not income of the company because the stockholders alone were entitled to receive them.

Disagreeing with this view the commission ruled the case was an analogous to one where a person enters into a contract agreeing that his future income be paid directly to a third person. Unquestionably, that income would be taxable to the person who assigned it although he had no right to receive it in cash; the commission said.

SAYS K. OF C. FOSTERS TOLERANCE FOR CHURCH

Milwaukee—(P)—Fostering of a more tolerant attitude toward the Roman Catholic church has been the great achievement of the Knights of Columbus in the half century of the organization's existence, Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch said at a golden jubilee celebration here last night.

"The original idea of the Knights of Columbus," the prelate said, "was to prove that the United States government could be mixed in the same crucible with Catholicism, to prove that Catholic ideals of citizenship were the same as American ideals of citizenship."

Base Child Training On Faith, Love

BY ANGELO PATRI

I have scant patience with those who solve all life's problems with a gesture of force, especially those who solve children's problems in that futile fashion.

"If he belonged to me I'd fix him. What he needs is a good old fashioned licking." "Why don't you make her stop such nonsense? Put your foot down." "Before I'll allow a child of mine to make a nuisance of himself I'd—Why don't you make that young one behave?"

The person who talks that way has had little experience with children. Had he ever tried to understand a wiggler of two years, babble and dress him for the night, he would not say, "Make him." If he had ever struggled to help a child break the habit of biting his nails, picking his fingers, twitching a lock of his hair, he would know better than to say "Spank him." If he had tried to guide a stony willed child through the stormy days of adolescence he would know better than to say, "Put your foot down."

If ever he had labored to hold a determined child in school long enough to bridge over the desire for power and the actual possession of power he would never say, "Give him a licking."

It is easy to know what "twere well to do." Getting it done is the hardest task in the world. Before you can help a child you have to maneuver him into an attitude of desire to help himself. When his whole being is headed in another direction, when his mind is deaf and blind to all you have to offer, what can force accomplish? Not a thing, but it can and does complicate matters considerably.

Something must be done to guide children and save them from their own helplessness and ignorance. Force is not the solution. Understanding, faith, love, in one form or another will solve any child's problem. Not in a minute, not in a day, but in the fullness of time, for this is a human spirit with which you deal and its ways are mysterious, hidden and unexpected.

Show us how to raise a child and we will rise to acclaim you, but please do not take the easy way, the futile way, and tell us to "make 'em." When you say that to a mother or to a teacher, to anyone struggling with wayward childhood, you pour fuel on the blaze. You bring down righteous anger upon your head. We want to know how to set a child's mental attitude toward wishing to grow in grace and power. Tell us that and we will bless you.

First, we study the child we have, and try to see where he differs from us and from other children. We try to find a source of strength in him, and on it plant the seed of new growth. We take what we find and make the most of it by fostering its first feeble signs of life and aspiration. Then in hope and faith and a great devotion we struggle on.

But we don't "make 'em." Not that way. We lead them by tortuous ways to broad highways of power and the process is long and painful. Try to remember that when next you see somebody struggling to and a mistaken misguided child. Wish him understanding and courage and success and go your way.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

RUTH EXPLAINS THE LOST SLIPPER

THE principal stepped aside as Ruth Bradley entered her office. She gave Ruth a look that was anything but approving. She shook her head a little. Then she left the room as though she had no desire to witness the interview.

Ruth's lips twisted into a smile. A few weeks before she would have been upset at such a procedure. Now it merely amused her.

The chief of the staff of physicians who attended to the measles, mumps and adenoids of the school system, stationed to a chair. He was rather old. Ruth noticed that his face looked frozen. She wondered if it hurt to keep the mask adjusted, so carefully. Then he looked at her and his eyes were so human, so understanding, so kind, that she forgot she had been afraid of him.

She glanced beyond him. A tall figure stood in the doorway that led into the next office. It was Joe Raynor.

She wondered if someone had discovered that she had given the children bright red lipsticks and carnation-colored eye cream, and also reported that Dr. Raynor had let the innocent pass. Maybe he was to be reproved, too. She wouldn't let him suffer, though. She would manage that, she told herself.

She decided to speak first. "I'm ever so sorry that you had to come here," she told the older man. "It was all my fault. The youngsters had never had a party so I bought them some useless things to eat. Dr. Raynor pulled them over it. Their stomachs were all burning. And I was afraid to let them go to keep still about the whole thing. I'll take all the blame."

The older man's lips twitched a little.

"I hadn't heard about the party," he said. "I don't imagine that a little indulgence now and then will hurt them. Probably worth the pains they suffered."

"Then why..." Ruth stopped.

What could have brought the two men there? What could make them appear so serious? Joe Raynor hadn't smiled. No, even when he had said that the youngsters' stomachs had been very full.

"We want to know if you lost a silver slipper on a road a few weeks ago?" the older man said.

So this was it! Corinne had been right. The words that she had said with such impish delight were really true. The slipper evidently was going... to fit!

"Yes, I did," she answered simply.

"How did you happen to lose it?"

She smiled this time. She might as well. Nothing would help much. "I was walking down the road in my stocking feet, carrying the slippers, because they weren't really mine. I didn't want them to become scratched on the rough road. They belonged to my sister and I had borrowed them. I forgot to put on the slippers. One of them must have bounced out of the car."

"You are sure that is the whole story?" the man asked. "It does not sound probable and I had backed you against all odds, Miss Bradley. I knew you would measure up!"

"But that's true," Ruth insisted. "That is what happened. I'm afraid I don't understand..." A small, cold feeling of panic was seizing her heart.

Matrons Model

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

You'll love this model, matrons! Its lines are so essentially lengthening and slenderizing.

I should choose a crepe silk print in black and white as its inspirer. It's the favoured scheme of the French dressmakers. And besides, you'll find it a most accommodating dress for spring and for early summer wear.

It's also very snappy in sheer woollens. The new beige tones are adorable.

Plain rough and flat crepe silks are smart.

Style No. 2733 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust.

What's the use of starting up trouble like that? Why not make up your mind to like the old friend and treat her as graciously as you'd treat any other new acquaintance. You can do yourself much harm, if you let a rather mean little spirit of jealousy rule you—and on the other hand, you can accomplish

MATCH SCENTS OF ALL YOUR BEAUTY AIDS

BY ALICIA HART

The latest spring vogue, and a worthy one, is to have all of the scents you use of one fragrance.

The idea is not only to match your powder and perfume up in scent, but to have bath powder, toilet water, hand lotions, creams and so forth blend nicely, instead of combatting each other with as many different scents as there are lotions.

Quite in this trend comes a new line of toilet articles that are unscented. Many women have bought certain lotions and creams just because they liked their smells. This new line refutes the belief that that is the only reason women buy them. The creams, complexion tonics, powders, bases and all the other cosmetics in the line are exquisite in texture, a pleasure to use, though they have no fragrance whatever.

One neat little trick that this line allows is this: If you go in for exotic scents, you can easily scent this whole line to suit yourself by putting a bit of cotton with your favorite perfume right into the jars. The creams and lotions will take up this fragrance, so it is started, and there you are, scented with a whole line of cosmetics, scented to suit yourself.

The outstanding contribution that this new line makes, in my opinion, is a new beauty cream. Now every woman with any tension in her life knows that sometimes her whole body feels tense and dried up. An application of this cream will relieve this. Moreover, there are always your knees, your elbows and your shins that need a bit of softening. This body cream is meant for them primarily.

Whether you achieve one fragrance for your whole line of cosmetics, certainly it is advisable to select scents that more or less go together. The woman who uses violet toilet water, lily of the valley powder, jasmine perfume, and cream with rose scent never can achieve that elusive fragrance that she might, would she stick to one. Summer-Max Cure Trouble

A BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE:

Wait to see what the summer brings. For all you know your troubles may be really over. I believe your husband has indeed been sufficiently punished by all the trouble which he experienced after his recent behavior. At any rate, it would be folly for you to walk out now when things are running smoothly and when you have some reason to believe that he is making an effort to reform.

Considering the fact that you have endured much and lived through much, this present condition of affairs is a decided improvement and should give you grounds for hope. At any rate, let this summer be the great test. After that it will be time to act—and not before.

JOY Friend Tired of Company

JOAN D.: Sorry but it looks too much as if the boy were telling the truth when he said he was tired of the steady business of running around with you—and although it's hard for you to take the news philosophically right now, there may come a time when you'll be darned glad he cut off this very, very, long drawn-out boy and girl affair.

You've known each other for seven years and you're still hardly old enough to be out of school so you haven't had a chance to know anything about real love. You've never known anyone else—you haven't the faintest idea of whether you care for someone else or not. Give yourself the chance to find out and don't on any account try to resume the affair. The boy has told you his feelings plainly and you'll humiliate yourself unnecessarily if you try to persuade him to reconsider.

Get busy now and make new friends and find out something about all the other people in the world before you decide that one boy, aged eighteen is the only worthwhile human being in existence.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BOLD

Players who have lost the first game have this, at least, in their favor: They can take considerable risks to save the second. When adversaries are a game to the good and one has a long suit and small honor strength, that is the moment for a bold Pre-emptive bid.

The annals of the Salsvire Club, London, afford an admirable illustration of this point. Lady Kitty Bodiam sat South, her partner was Admiral Fenge. They were playing against Mr. Lupin and Sir Jeremy Glass, who had already won one game. The card were dealt as follows:

South—Dealer.
Score: East-West, game.
North-South 0

♠ K 10 8 2
♥ Q 9
♦ J 10 4
♣ 9 7 4 3

♠ A J 6 2
♥ A 4
♦ K 7 3 2
♣ Q 8 2

♠ Q 9 7 4
♥ K 7
♦ 8 5 5
♣ A K J 5

♥ J 10 8 6 5 3 2
♦ A Q 5
♣ 10 6

The Bidding:
South West North East
4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Lady Bodiam looked at her hand and bid four hearts. A novice, perhaps would hardly take the risk, and yet, as reflection will show, she has no real alternative. To pass is tantamount to throwing up the sponge. To bid less than four hearts would be suicidal. The hand is too deficient in honor strength. A bid of three hearts for example, will not prevent bidding by the adversaries if the latter are strong, while, if partner holds the cards, he may be trapped into bidding a Slam. It is only Pre-emptive bids of four that should be made with a shortage of honor-tricks.

What was Lady Bodiam risking? If the Admiral held a "bust" and the adverse cards were unfavorably distributed she might have been doubled and set 4 tricks. But this was extremely unlikely. She could reasonably count on from 11 to 2 honor-tricks in the Admiral's hand, and given this much support, her limit of loss would be 2 tricks, whereas the adversaries, unless their guns were spiked at once, might very easily have a bid for game.

COED DEBATORS MEET ALBION COLLEGE TEAM

Maxine Fraser, Appleton, and Helen Snyder, Escanaba, Mich., represented Lawrence college in a debate with Albion college of Albion, Mich., Monday evening before the Clintonville Rotary club. Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE "ARIES"

If March 31st is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 430 p. m. and from 9.45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 p. m. to 730 p. m.

Both the man of thought and the man of action will meet with heartening prospects on March 31st. As traditional forecasts of the future are unusual forecasts of the future, the man of peace and good will on earth will tend to dodge work and responsibility. They will do most things in the order of the turn of the tide, and if the situation be strong enough will exhibit both brain and brawn. They will have very sensitive natures.

You have on March 31st you have a very tender-hearted and sympathetic nature. You are guided by your feelings more than your intellect. Your first hunches are, nine times out of ten, correct, and you generally regret not obeying them. You are of too warm a nature to be a realist, and you are too sympathetic to be a miser of the world's goods. You are a true happy being. You are able to put your eyes on nothing but the good.

You have remarkable holding-out qualities and do not readily let go of anything which interests or appeals to you. You are the loyal friend who still sticks when others have deserted; you are the one, also, who tries once again when others have given up in despair. You have a superabundance of faith, hope and optimism. Your troubles will come, not from quitting too soon, but from remaining too long in a fruitless place.

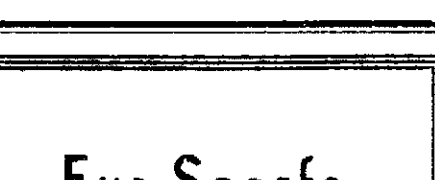

You are not a born student or an inveterate reader, but you try to keep well enough informed "to be in the know" of things. You are a follower of the human pack in most respects and never like to be out of

Doc Spears Accepts Post As Wisconsin Football Coach

WILL REPORT AT MADISON ON APRIL 15

Well Known in Middle West Football; Former Minnesota Mentor

MADISON—(AP)—Dr. Clarence Spears, football mentor at the University of Oregon, has accepted the position of head football coach at the University of Wisconsin, the board of regents announced today. He succeeds Glenn Thistlethwaite, who resigned last December.

Dr. Spears will arrive in Madison, April 13 and will direct the Badgers in spring drills two days later. The board of regents did not announce the new coach's salary but it was reported on good authority that it was $10,000 for a year's contract.

Negotiated Weeks
Weeks of negotiations preceded Dr. Spears' decision to take over the destiny of Wisconsin football. On several occasions the Oregon coach stated he had decided to remain in the west but widespread demands for his services brought about further negotiations.

Wisconsin's new coach is well known in Western conference circles having coached at Minnesota from 1925 to 1930. Previously he coached at West Virginia and was assistant coach at Dartmouth, his alma mater. His Minnesota teams were always a threat in the Big Ten circuit having won 28 games while suffering only nine defeats.

In selecting Spears for the post the board of regents acceded to the demands from various quarters for a coach with a "national reputation." After disastrous seasons in 1930 and 1931 the athletic department was subjected to severe criticism and as a result both Coach Thistlethwaite and George Little, athletic director who brought him to Wisconsin from Northwestern, resigned.

Fifth In Ten Years
Dr. Spears is Wisconsin's fifth head coach in the last decade. J. R. Richards retired in 1922 after coaching for six years and was succeeded by J. E. Ryan who gave way to George Little in 1925. Thistlethwaite assumed command in 1927. With the selection of Spears the reorganization of the athletic department is virtually complete. Following the resignation of Little, who subsequently became director of physical education at Rutgers university, the board of regents appointed Irwin Uteritz director of intercollegiate athletics, a new department created separately from the other units of the athletic department. Uteritz, a former Michigan baseball and football star, has been assistant coach here for several years.

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence W. Spears has decided to resign as head football coach at the University of Oregon to accept a similar position at the University of Wisconsin. The resignation was announced today. The paper said the noted mentor's resignation will be submitted to Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, today or tomorrow with the request that it become effective immediately.

Confers With Muck
Spears' decision was made last night at a conference with Arlie Muck, associate professor in the college of agriculture at Wisconsin, who had come west to persuade the Oregon coach to return to the Big Ten conference, the Oregonian said. Spears formerly coached at Minnesota.

Spears, as quoted by the Oregonian, said the unification of the University of Oregon and Oregon state college, as recently ordered by the state board of higher education, had influenced his decision. The board has inaugurated a program of rigid economy and Spears felt the Oregonian said, he has contract, which calls for $11,500 a year, was not in harmony with that program.

Double Windup Features Legion's Amateur Program Thursday

Doc Spears Is Coach With An Aldermanic Waistline

EUGENE, Ore.—(AP)—All right, Wisconsin, now that you've got him, step right up and shake hands with "Doc" Spears, football coach with the aldermanic waistline. Something of a Horatio Alger hero, Doc is, "way back then, in 1911 it was, when he entered Knox college, Spears, minus the waistline and the title, "Doc," had no intention of going in for athletics, and would you look at him now!

Even if Spears didn't have the waistline in 1911, he had weight and physique. That was what Nifty Niven, coach of the proud little Illinois school needed.

Nifty had been going up and down the campus vainly looking for someone to lift the weights above his knees for the glory of dear old Knox. Then one of Nifty's athletic hounds found Spears burning the well-known midnight oil in an attic while he pored over books for his education.

Study, Nifty argued with him, was nice. In fact, it was one of the things one went to college for. But track—now that was something. Think of the thrill of throwing weights a foot farther than anyone else, while stands cheered and the glory of the school skyrocketed. It took some time, but he finally induced Spears to go out for track.

Doc took his track as seriously as his books, and ere long proceeded to belittle every weight record in and near dear old Knox.

Came football season. And Doc put most of the midwest grid talent in its place—on the flat of its back. Niven decided Spears' talents should go east to expand, and he forthwith obtained a scholarship for him at Dartmouth where he was welcomed in the grand style that only Dartmouth boasts.

There he showed the Green what an athlete is. The great Walter Camp dropped a glance on Spears and promptly gave him the all-American guard position in 1913 and 1914. Doc hadn't forgotten what track was for, and continued to win laurels in that line.

His first coaching assignment came in the field of taking the account from the Dartmouth frosh and putting a football in its place. He did so well with the frosh grid squad that he soon succeeded to the job of varsity coaching.

And that is the story of how a midnight student became a sport-light coach.

SIGN CONTRACTS FOR CHAMPION'S OSHKOSH VISIT

Max Schmeling to Show in Four Round Exhibition on April 25

Oshkosh—Contracts were signed Monday and returned to Max Schmeling, assuring the appearance of the champion in Oshkosh in an exhibition boxing bout, Monday, April 25.

As Schmeling must appear here under supervision of the state boxing commission, the Oshkosh Professional Boxing club will stage the bout.

The champion will appear in a three- or four round exhibition against a boxer to be chosen by the local club.

The Oshkosh club anticipates a large crowd as money for reservation of tickets has been coming in from all over the state since Schmeling announced his tour plans and the list of dates included the name of Oshkosh.

Site Undetermined
Just where the bout will be staged will be decided upon in the next few days.

It is expected that the show will be held in the Recreational gymnasium where a crowd of 2,500 may be accommodated by the use of bleachers both temporary and stationary and the use of chairs on the floor.

Mayor Taylor G. Brown and the commission council have recommended that an exception be made for this one time and it is expected that, through the cooperation of Rufus K. Schrier, president of the board of vocational education, the permit will be granted, it was stated.

One official stated yesterday, "It is almost too good to be true to think that a heavyweight champion will appear in Oshkosh."

Civic Enterprise
City officials, it was said, became interested in seeing the bout put over in a big way, because of the civic pride attached to the venture.

To have Schmeling come to Oshkosh and appear under unfavorable circumstances would be poor publicity for the city in the eyes of the hundreds of out of town spectators, it was explained.

Therefore, in view of the fact that Oshkosh has no civic auditorium, the best which can be offered the heavyweight champion, will be furnished, if possible.

While Schmeling will be the main attraction, there will be several other bouts on the show. About 30 rounds of boxing will be supplied and these bouts are being arranged now.

Former Treasurer of Cincy Reds Dies
Cincinnati—(AP)—Lou Widrig will be buried in his native Newport, Ky., across the Ohio river from here, tomorrow, leaving behind as his monument the Cincinnati baseball club of the National league, which as treasurer, he once saved from financial collapse.

Widrig died in New York yesterday of pneumonia which followed the suffering of severe burns in a fire in his hotel room there Jan. 31. He was 61.

It was in 1915 that the financial foundation of the Cincinnati Reds seemed about to totter. Money went out, none came in. The club was on the verge of bankruptcy. Widrig reached down into his pockets, and met the bills himself. Then he started financial reorganization.

Murphy, Springfield, Mo., outpointed Mike Firpo, Tampa, (8).

PAIR TEAMS IN STATE Y. M. C. A. CAGE TOURNEY

Kimberly Club Meets Co. G. of Madison Friday Afternoon

GREEN BAY—Pairings for opening games in the Y. M. C. A. state amateur basketball tourney beginning here Friday have been made.

The Green Bay Alpha Sweets, 1331 champions, drew a bye in the first round. Three other teams drew first round byes to advance to the second round for their opening games. They are the Milwaukee Centurians, the Red Triangles or Flexies, Wausau Schofield Lee and Fuel and Onalaska Black Comets.

The Milwaukee team will meet the Alpha Sweets at eight o'clock Friday evening. The Wausau team will take on the Onalaska squad at 7 o'clock.

First Games Friday
Opening games will be staged Friday afternoon with four games on the schedule. Winners will advance to the second round for evening games. Four games will be staged in the evening. Saturday morning consolation games will be staged at 9 and 10 o'clock and in the afternoon the quarterfinal round of the championship. Night will be put on. Semi-finals and finals in the title play and finals in the consolation series will be staged Saturday night.

Pairings in first games send the Beloit Cradick and the Witte team, against the Oshkosh. Stoles in the opening tilt at 8 o'clock Friday. Shelbyville Schuikie Cigars take on the Menominee Redskins in the second game one hour later. The Port Howard of Green Bay take on the Racine Douglas Flowers at 4 o'clock. Madison Company G plays the Kimberly Clark team in the final afternoon tilt.

Expect Close Games
The tournament is expected to be the best ever staged in ten years of competition. District meets have been close with 12 to 15 teams entered in every section. The 15 survivors are the pick of approximately 250 independent amateur squads of the state.

Alpha Sweets, defending champions, with a team about on a par with last year's squad, has a good chance to repeat, but is sure to find the going a bit tougher than it was in 1931. The local team was unfortunate in drawing the Milwaukee squad as the first opponent, but if it can get over this hump, has a good chance to reach the finals.

A. A. U. HOLDS ITS MIDWEST TOURNEY

Chicago—(AP)—Midwest track and field stars will run, jump and throw for Central A. A. U. championships tonight in the 12th field artillery armory.

The hurdles are expected to be the best events of the evening, with John Brooks of Chicago; Lee Semman, former Illinois star; Jimmy Hatfield and Bob Rogers entered.

Training Camp Notes

San Francisco—(AP)—Bill Terry of the New York Giants' all-star cast, has burst forth with a prediction that this is the Giant's year.

Terry bases his hopes not on the power in the Giant lineup alone but on two factors that he thinks will hurt the champion St. Louis Cardinals.

"They'll miss Burleigh Grimes," says Bill "and they'll not beat Cincinnati 15 times in the first six weeks of the season as they did last year."

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(AP)—Ambitious rookies have been trying for three years to take Earle Combs' centerfield job from him but there's no evidence at hand that Combs will not be in his usual place in the New York Yankee lineup when the season opens.

Sam Byrd tried to oust the veteran in 1929. Myril Hoag in 1931 and this spring George Selkirk, obtained from Jersey City tried it. He has made an extremely favorable impression but he is not yet ready to replace Combs.

Orlando, Fla.—(AP)—The Athletics and the Cincinnati Reds meet in an exhibition game today. The A's 4 to 3 defeat by the Boston Braves yesterday was the third they had suffered at the hands of the Bostonians this season, and it brought their record for the season thus far to eight victories and five defeats.

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Having won two consecutive games from the Atlanta Crackers, the Phillies go after a third conquest today. The Ruchmen won yesterday, 7 to 3, and never were in danger.

Burt Shotton dropped Bill Wooding and Homer Dudley, right and left-handed pitchers, respectively, to the Durham club, with which the Reds have a working agreement.

Los Angeles—(AP)—The ace has fallen again in the Detroit Tiger training squad and this time Orlin Coffey, recruit pitcher, secured a win.

San Francisco—San Francisco 10 to 2 New York (N.Y.).
Los Angeles—Detroit 4 to 3 Chicago (N.Y.).
Santa Barbara—Los Angeles (PCL) 5 to 3 Pittsburgh (N.Y.).
St. Petersburg, Fla.—New York 10 to 3 Cincinnati (N.Y.).
Jacksonville, Fla.—Indianapolis 10 to 1 Brooklyn (N.Y.).
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—Buffalo 10 to 3 St. Louis (A.L.).
Savannah, Ga.—Boston 10 to 3 New York (A.L.).
Orlando, Fla.—Boston 10 to 4 Philadelphia (A.L.).
Atlanta—Philadelphia 10 to 7 Atlanta (A.L.).
Gulfport, Miss.—Washington 10 to 1 Baltimore (N.Y.).
Shreveport, La.—Chicago 10 to 5 Shreveport (T.D.).
Bradenton, Fla.—St. Louis 10 to 9 Bradenton (H.S.).
New Orleans—Cleveland 10 to 4 Toledo (A.A.).

Houston, Tex.—Columbus 10 to 9 Houston (T.D.).
Joplin, Mo.—Kansas City 10 to 8 Joplin (W.A.).

JOEY CIESLAK, MARTY KRAMER IN ONE BOUT

Art West, Appleton and Duke Manko, Milwaukee, in the Other

THE CARD
Double Windup
Joe Cieslak, Milwaukee, vs. Marty Kramer, Shioyogan.
Art West, Appleton vs. Duke Manko, Milwaukee.

The Others
Julius Legler, Milwaukee vs. Don DeLair, Green Bay.
Norbert Gerarden, Green Bay vs. Walter Walker, Milwaukee.
Frank Weyenberg, Appleton vs. John Pankow, Milwaukee.
Elmer Stofen, Appleton vs. Hank Mattson, Iawau.
Rube Murphy, Appleton vs. Ray Vanderhaeghe, Green Bay.

A seven bout fight card which there is every reason to believe will be as much full of action and good old fashioned fist-cuffs as the last card was full of knockout has been completed for the amateur mat program here Thursday night at Armory G. And should the card be home sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion.

A double windup has been arranged for tomorrow night and the two bouts are good enough to make a complete show in themselves. The last fight of the evening will show Joey Cieslak, Milwaukee, one of the ranking boxers in the state against Marty Kramer, Shioyogan, another husky performer.

Cieslak holds a couple K. O. wins over Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, who is considered some fighter himself. Cieslak soon will turn professional at the suggestion of Jack Dempsey, former heavy weight champ with whom he worked while Jack was in Milwaukee.

Kramer is no set up for anyone. He keeps his chin well protected, can hit with the best of the boys and has had several mighty interlocking battles with Ahl, Cieslak and Kramer met once before with Joe Whinnin; Marty now hopes to even matters.

West Meets Manko
The other windup will show Art West, Appleton's future guide who has been training ever his opponent with K. O. wins as often as he losing to the guide. Art meets Duke Manko, Milwaukee, a youngster he fought last fall and who will give him a merry evening. West is a much improved fighter over last fall and hopes to cut another notch on the family mantle when he checks up his K. O. victims.

Julius Legler will return to a local ring in the fifth hour of the evening. He draws Don DeLair of Green Bay, a youngster who can give and take with the best at his weight.

DeLair will be remembered as the only valley youngster to win from a team of Chicago amateurs several weeks ago. His opponent, Legler, has arranged to value rings before and is a clever performer.

Norbert Gerarden of Green Bay, who is said to have started his ring career but a few months ago, but who is coming fast, is matched with Walter Walker of Milwaukee in the fourth bout. Little is known of Walker, but Gerarden's friends up around the ancient city are certain their favorite can win.

A couple heavyweights will perform in the third fight of the evening. They are Frank Weyenberg of Appleton, when he wins, and Little Charlie, who loses, who will meet John Pankow, Milwaukee, the least known, and here a younger among the Milwaukee fighter purses. Pankow also is a good fighter and holds a decision over the L. W. heavy champ. Weyenberg has lost his last couple gas but figures he is just about due for a few victories.

College Boys Mix
Two Lawrence college boxers will mix in the second hour of the evening. They are Hank Mattson and Ed Pfefferle, the latter an Appleton product. Mattson is a southpaw and last year was middleweight champion at the college. Pfefferle is the light heavyweight champion. The curtain will be raised by Rube Murphy from over in the fourth ward and Ray Vanderhaeghe, Green Bay. The latter is making his debut here but Murphy has shown several times. In Murphy's last bout he was fouled and awarded the fight.

On paper the card is the best balanced presented here in a long time. The boys all are recognized fighters, they appear evenly matched and should give the fans a great evening. Tickets are on sale at the usual places.

$8,000 FIRE AT RESIDENCE OF J. NIESEN

Defective Wiring Blamed for Conflagration Early This Morning

Kaukauna—Defective wiring was blamed for a blaze early Wednesday morning that caused damage estimated between $8,000 and $10,000 at the home of John H. Niesen, first ward supervisor, on Wisconsin-ave. The fire was discovered about midnight, and the local fire department answered the alarm, laying out 800 feet of hose and spraying two streams of water on the blaze. Although the exact amount of loss could not be ascertained, Mr. Niesen said the damage would amount to over $8,000. The building, a two-story frame structure, was gutted by the flames that started about wiring in a partition on the second floor, spreading quickly to the roof. A slate roof kept the blaze within the house.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Niesen's son, Herbert, who was awakened by smoke. All of the members of the family were in the house but were awakened and taken to the homes of relatives where they will remain until the building can be repaired. None of the furniture was saved. The loss is partly covered by insurance, according to Mr. Niesen.

Firemen had the fire under control within a short time. It was necessary to chop several holes through the slate roof to reach the fire. Firemen remained at the scene until 2:15, guarding against further outbreaks.

INOCULATE 1,600 SCHOOL CHILDREN

Immunization Treatments Against Diphtheria Started at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Immunization treatments for prevention of diphtheria were given to more than 1,600 school children here Tuesday. Children of the north side received the inoculations at Park school at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, and children of the south side received the inoculations at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in St. Mary's school. Health authorities were unable to accommodate all the children desiring the treatments, and another series of treatments will be given next month.

Dr. G. J. Flanagan administered the inoculations at Park school and Dr. Albert Leigh conducted the treatments at St. Mary's school. According to Miss Cell Flynn, city nurse, there were more than 400 children of pre-school age to receive the treatments. Parents of the children of pre-school age had to accompany their children.

Children under six years of age will take but one more treatment, that on April 12. All children of school age will take two more treatments. The second treatment will be given at the same schools on Tuesday, April 5, and the last on Tuesday, April 12. Local doctors again will be in charge of the inoculations.

The immunization treatments are financed by an appropriation of the Outagamie-co board, and the movement is in charge of the county health authorities.

MANY SEED COMPANIES NOW ON CASH BASIS

BY W. F. WINSEY

In some counties of northeastern Wisconsin a few seed companies inspired, perhaps by the seed loans offered by the federal government to farmers who have no other way of purchasing seed and whose fields otherwise would remain idle the coming summer, are asking cash payments for seeds not only from farmers who get the seed loans but also from other farmers whose credit in the past has been good and who are still in good financial standing in their communities but who are not able for these reasons to obtain the seed loans. These well-to-do farmers are short of ready cash on account of the low prices of farm products.

The sudden shifting of seed companies from credit to cash basis threatens to cause considerable embarrassment to this large class of well-to-do farmers as seeding time approaches.

A number of banks in Brown and Kewaunee-counties, however, are advertising their willingness to loan money to farmers for the purchase of seed and fertilizers and are saying that government seed loans in their communities are not necessary.

The above changes in the attitude of certain seed companies and banks toward farmers were recently discussed by a group of farmers in the presence of the writer.

CALLS HUMANE AGENT TO DISPOSE OF COWS

BY W. F. WINSEY

A farmer living in the grasshopper-drought stricken section of last summer in Calumet-co lately decided to call in the state humane agent to dispose of his cows, after he failed to get help to buy feed for his starving animals from the holder of a mortgage on his farm, and also from the holder of a mortgage on his cows.

This farmer's plight if it is accurately reported raises the question, what is the best thing to do with a herd of emaciated cattle after the mows are empty, the strawstack has disappeared and pasture will not be in sight for three or four weeks?

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Waupaca—At the annual meeting of the Waupaca Cemetery association held at the city hall Tuesday three directors were re-elected for three years: Roy Holly, W. L. Holmes and F. A. Heuseman. The treasurer's report showed a balance at the end of the year of $860.19 in the general fund. This is about $400 less than last year, caused by poor collection and fewer lots sold.

Alvin Gray, 66, who lived north of Waupaca several years ago, burned to death with his dog in a shack 20 miles west of Escanaba, Mich. Officials, who believed the shack caught fire while Gray slept, said that Gray came to that locality three years ago from Wisconsin.

CAN'T OVERLOOK PROHIBITION IN THIS CAMPAIGN

BY BYRON PRICE
Washington—Every few days some political leader or other arises to predict in print that the coming campaign will be waged on economic issues, with prohibition left out of the picture. But will it?

The very frequency of these prophecies arouses suspicion. If prohibition is to be left out, why mention it at all? It would be interesting to know in how many such pronouncements the wish is father to the thought.

Historically, there is a taint of fallacy about any supposition that a time of national trouble takes the minds of the people away from issues which rest on deep-bedded personal conviction. As often as not, distress intensifies rather than diminishes the play of such issues on the human emotions.

Lincoln set out to fight the Civil war on the basis of preserving the Union, but the slavery issue would not permit itself to be overshadowed. It was in the midst of the World war that prohibition was legally consummated.

Whatever the political leaders may say, or may hope, they are sure to hear a great deal more about prohibition during 1932.

Prepare for Battle
No campaign year since the nation went dry has seen such impressive preparations for battle on the part of militant prohibitionists and their adversaries.

In addition to their individual efforts, the prohibition organizations have had functioning in Washington for months a joint board of strategy, whose specific purpose it is to further the cause in the coming political campaign. The opposition is exerting pressure also through a nation-wide set-up.

Some of the very leaders who have loudly read prohibition out of the campaign are busily engaged in seeking a way to make the effect effective.

The Democrats seem likely now to leave the question of a party plank to be fought out in the convention itself. The Republicans are making quiet efforts to agree in advance, but without much success. Whoever is nominated will find his personal views examined severely under the microscope.

Look To Vice Presidency
Just now some of the Republican modificationists are using the vice-presidential nomination as a lever.

They are urging that with President Hoover at the head of the ticket, and with the east as an important battleground, it would be a mistake to renominate Vice-President Curtis, a western dry.

Those mentioned to replace him include Bertrand Snell of New York, the Republican leader of the House, and Henry W. Anderson of Virginia.

The strength of this movement cannot yet be computed.

Little Hope For Unity
Those who despair of ever getting all these wets or all the dries into one of the present parties, so as to establish a clear line of political division, find little comfort as they look forward to the much-propheesied day of new parties, when the voters presumably will divide into "conservatives" and "liberals" instead of Republicans and Democrats.

In the tax squabble in the house, for instance, those who like to call themselves conservatives were for the sales tax, and those who emphasize liberalism were against it.

Where would two new parties modeled along these lines stand on prohibition? The wet Tammany

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

New York—(CPA)—The news of the San Francisco plot to kidnap Archbishop Francisco Orozco y Jimenez of Mexico is just one more lurid episode in a lifetime of all but incredible melodrama. None but Robert Bruce, hiding in the caves of Rathlin, a band's reach away from his pursuers, could tell a tale like this.

For nearly three years, the venerable prelate hid in the huts of Guadalajara, crept through the chaparral of the Zacatecas mountains, found refuge in disguise in peon families or rode at night through the encompassing lines of his enemies. The Jalisco rebellion, with its banners "Viva Cristo Rey," had been charged to him—a charge which he later denied. President Calles was relentless in his pursuit.

He was first deported in 1917, but later returned to Guadalajara, his diocese, to continue his fight against the confiscation of church property. In 1920, the so-called rebellion gained momentum and Archbishop Orozco became a fugitive. In 1929 with the rapprochement between church and state, he was allowed to return to Mexico City.

Soon thereafter he was again banished. He is under strict fall of commanding presence, with graying hair. He has the culture and the polished manners of a European diplomat. A hundred years ago, Padre Hidalgo, the priest who led the revolt against Spain, covered the same trails in his flight and later triumphant return.

Senator Couzens is stirring the members of the 1930 Republican national committee row when he brings John R. Nutt into the Borah-Couzens drive on the interstate commerce commission and the proposed $12,000,000 loan to the Missouri Pacific railroad. Mr. Nutt, treasurer of the committee, was quick to strike back at Senator Nye, when the latter adduced testimony bearing on a "Republican slush fund." According to past performances, his reply to Senator Couzens should be swift and vehement.

Mr. Nutt is a Cleveland banker, former president of the Cleveland Union Trust Co., and a powerful industrialist—comparatively new, however, to large scale politics. He was one of the first to herald the name and fame of Herbert Hoover. He was a salesman, born on a Pennsylvania farm. In 1893 he picked up a jewelry store, at a receiver's sale in Akron, Ohio. Not only prosperity, but affluence was just around the corner. From then on his career was swiftly on the up-take.

An obscure news item reports that Mrs. Leonora Speyer will be the sole legatee of the estate of her husband, Sir Edgar Speyer, who died in Berlin last month.

Mrs. Speyer is the exceptional woman who remained undisciplined by a distinguished husband and who made her career after she had become the mother of four children. Sir Edgar was a famous international banker, a German who became a member of the British privy council. War embarrassments and changes, which Herbert Asquith later vehemently denounced as unjust, led him to retire from the council, resign his baronetcy and remove his family to America.

In 1916, Mrs. Speyer began writing poetry. She was awarded the prizes of the Poetry Society of America and the Charlestown Poetry society. In 1927, she was awarded the delegation fought solidly for the tax, under the leadership of Congressman Crisp, a Georgia prohibitionist. The leader against the tax was La Guardia of New York, arch-enemy of prohibition, and one of his chief lieutenants was the venerable Howard, an old-time Bryan dry from Nebraska.

And so it goes.

Nobody Knows What Public Wants Now, Says Director

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
Hollywood, Cal.—(CPA)—"There are billions of dollars awaiting the man who can tell beforehand whether a picture will succeed or fail," said Hamilton MacFadden, the director, today. "But this is a thing no man can at present predict. The trouble is not altogether with Hollywood. Nobody knows what is going to please the public of today. Put the blame on our modern age, where the old standards have gone, where new standards have not yet arrived and where there's little at present but hurry up and confusion."

MacFadden, who played football and baseball at Harvard, managed the Harvard Glee club on its first European tour, produced "Beggar on Horseback" in New York and made a name for himself here by directing a dozen pictures at the Fox studio because of his belief that Hollywood is not necessarily the exact center of the universe.

"Once upon a time," MacFadden continued, "truth was truth, you didn't let your children play with European toys, and there were people dreaming of extanting in your home."

Today you don't know what's true nor who's what. Try to learn in your children and they run away. The next 40 years will decide whether Oriental or Anglo Saxon ideas are going to rule the world, whether America, England and Germany or the Orient will be on top. Meanwhile, you buy something at the corner store and the article isn't what you expected and the storekeeper is merely the hired man of a firm away off in New York or Chicago and nobody is personally responsible.

Local Pride Gone
"In the old days the storekeeper was a member of the board of selectmen, he knew your family, you knew his, and there was both responsibility and a standard. I think we shall work back to this local pride and responsibility, taking with us the lesson in a broader outlook learned in the midst of the present uproar."

"But with this uproar in full cry, how can any one know with certainty what will please the public? A picture that went big 10 years ago may be remade with sound, better than before and prove a failure. A picture that failed 10 years ago may be produced again and go big. There are no definite standards of public taste by which to determine whether a picture will go over or fall flat. It isn't even the fault of the public. It's the fault of the age."

"Add to this the fact that in order to keep the exhibitors and movie

SEE ERADICATION OF DIPHTHERIA DEATHS

Madison, Wis.—P.—The steadily decreasing death rate from diphtheria in Wisconsin to but 54 during 1931 has encouraged the state board of health to predict eradication of deaths from this disease.

With 2,000 deaths from diphtheria in 1887, the board of health listed gradual decreases in fatalities in a bulletin issued today. In 1910, a total of 492 residents of the state died from this affliction; 173 in 1925; 109 in 1928, 80 in 1929 and 72 in 1930.

For the first time since records have been kept by the board, no deaths were reported from diphtheria during a calendar month—July of 1931.

"Increasing use of toxin antitoxin," the report said, "during the past six years is credited by the state board of health with having beaten down the diphtheria menace to a point where eradication of the disease in Wisconsin may soon be effected, insofar as fatalities are concerned."

BROUGHTON HITS REPUBLICANS FOR MOUNTING COSTS

Makes Plea for Election of Roosevelt-pledged Delegates

Richland Center, Wis.—AP.—Scoring the Republican national administration for mounting federal expenditures, Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan, in a speech here last night, made a plea for the election of Roosevelt-pledged delegates to the national convention.

Mr. Broughton, who is a candidate for delegate-at-large on the Roosevelt ticket, said "we could dispense with thousands of white collared gentlemen at Washington, and the only reminder we would have of their absence would be a reduction in taxes."

"Every nation that has spent beyond its ability to pay has gone down the road to ruin," he said. "We do not want history to repeat itself here in the United States."

"We are daily spending seven million dollars more than we receive, and no attempt is being made to decrease the army of employed at Washington. Mr. Hoover has gone on over commissions and investigations the findings of which are being placed before the public. The history of the Wickersham-Hoover controversy after the report of the law enforcement commission was written is still unexplained. In the face of ten members of the commission indicting the law Mr. Hoover still adheres to his cry of watchful waiting."

"Modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of four per cent beer would turn the wheels of industry, make grain growing profitable, bring added work to the various trades and provide revenue with which to run the government.

"Instead of paying millions in an attempt to enforce an unenforceable law we would be deriving a tax from a law that would command the respect of the American people. We would keep people on this side of the Canadian border because of their love for the United States, and above everything else we would restore faith in our constitution, and once more the eyes of the world would be upon an America with a new freedom."

Congressman M. K. Reilly of Fond du Lac has advised the people of the state that Governor Alfred E. Smith is not a candidate. Mr. Broughton said, "thus setting at rest the often repeated story that this is a contest between Roosevelt and Smith. It is a contest between the liberals and the reactionary forces—the power trust on one side and Roosevelt on the other, representing the common people."

MANY FARMERS OFFER FOODSTUFFS TO ARMY
Milwaukee—(AP)—Wisconsin farmers whose lean pocketbooks do not permit them to make their usual cash gifts to the Salvation Army this year in some rural communities are contributing produce and foodstuffs. Instead, according to Adjutant George R. Hook, in charge of the Army's home service department here, The Farmers' Cooperative group at Wyocena, Wis., recently sent Army headquarters a barrel of flour. Adj. Hook said by way of illustration.

NORTH SHORE ROAD SEEKS AUTHORITY TO FLOAT BONDS

Would Get $1,150,000 Loan from Reconstruction Corporation

By RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington - Still staunchly maintaining that it is an interstate railroad not subject to Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction, the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad nevertheless has deigned to ask the I. C. C. permission to issue bonds so that it can get a $1,150,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

On Feb. 22, the electric road which operates in Illinois and Wisconsin, applied to the Reconstruction Corporation for a loan of $1,150,000 for three years and proposed as security its first and refunding series B 5 1/2 mortgage gold bonds with a par value of $2,055,000. These bonds were issued by authority of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin and the Interstate Commerce Commission. The only regulatory bodies according to the railroad claim, with jurisdiction in the matter of issuance of certificates of the road.

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee now says to the I. C. C. that it "now contends and has at all times since its organization, an interurban electric railway not operated as part of the general common carrier of transportation and is not therefore subject to the I. C. C.'s jurisdiction."

However, it admits that this viewpoint, which has brought it into conflict with the Department of Justice and into court in a case ultimately involving some $4,000,000 worth of its certificates, is not shared by the I. C. C. The railroad has questioned the validity of the bonds it has offered the Reconstruction Corporation.

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee wants that loan. So it respectfully denies the jurisdiction of the I. C. C. in the issue of securities but because of expediency arising in matter of said proposed loan from the corporation, it brings application to the I. C. C. to remove any question of validity.

It asks permission to issue first and refunding series C 5 1/2 gold bonds in par value amounting to $2,722,000.

The North Shore seems to be both interurban and interstate. Its line closely parallels the line of its competitor, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, for 33 miles from Chicago through Racine and Janesville to Milwaukee. It enjoys trackage rights over the lines of the C. M. & St. P. and P. It carries freight and, in general, is conducted exactly as are steam railroads. It bases a part of its argument that it is an interurban line on the fact that its tracks run through the streets of Milwaukee.

The minority stockholders have filed suit against the railroad and expect their case involving $4,000,000 worth of past issues of stock, to come up next May.

SEE BRIGHTER FEATURES OVER RAIL EARNINGS

Some Roads in East Show Benefits of Close Operating Policy

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—It is not uncommon for American railroads to fall to earn their monthly percentage of fixed charges and dividend requirements in the first quarter of the calendar year. This is a period of low traffic receipts and of high operating costs when weather conditions are normal. These facts are entitled to some consideration in an analysis of current railroad earnings receipts characterized by frequency of deficits and by the emphasis being placed in speculative circles on the unfavorable character of these returns. It is true, however, that comparisons this year with previous years are still unsatisfactory. In spite of the long decline in earnings since they first began to show the effect of the depression at the end of 1929, the pickup is slow. Except for about two weeks during the middle of March, an abnormally low volume of car loadings is indicated. The survey made by traffic organizations for the second quarter of the year suggests a decline of about 10 per cent in these loadings below the total for the same three months of 1931.

Bright Features

There are, however, a number of encouraging features that may be gathered from a study of the February statements now being published. While none of them shows a satisfactory trend in gross earnings, a few do reveal the benefits of a close operating policy and the savings that have been effected under the 10 per cent reduction in wages inaugurated Feb. 1. The total reduction in net operating income last month will be considerably less than that for January although, in contrast with February, 1931, the statements indicate a loss of about one-third of the net of the earliest period.

The best records are those of the eastern trunk lines. For example, the Pennsylvania system, in spite of a gross loss last month in excess of 20 per cent, showed a net operating income nearly as large as that of February last year. More important is the fact that in the first two months of 1932 net operating revenue is off only about $800,000, or 13 per cent, from the same period in connection with the future dividend policy of the Pennsylvania management. The Baltimore and Ohio Monday released its statement for February. This indicated that, in spite of a gross decrease of about 20 per cent, the net railway operating income nearly doubled under a campaign of severe cuts in operating expenses.

Net Income Better

These included a 25 per cent shaving in the cost of "transportation," in which item is the element of wages. For the first two months of the year the Baltimore and Ohio lost $6,702,000, or 23 per cent, in gross, reduced its expenses $7,203,000, or 28 per cent, and increased its net railway operating income about $716,000, or 35 per cent.

A number of other lines in the east did comparatively well in February. The New York, Ontario and Western, which made a striking record in 1931, has followed it in 1932 with an increase of over 40 per cent in operating income, with both January and February showing substantial gains over the previous year. The Nickel Plate last month had a net operating income of $216,000 as against $15,480 in February, 1931. The Central Railroad of New Jersey earned 23 per cent more net last month than in February, 1931, and its associated line, the Reading, had an increase in net of over 35 per cent. In other sections of the country there were relatively good statements made by the Illinois Central, Virginia, Pere Marquette and the Minneapolis and St. Louis.

Railroad men have been encouraged by the aggressive attitude taken by President Hoover in bringing controversial questions over credit relief to a head and, in each case, favoring a policy that will prevent any acute financial distress among the carriers. In view of his emphasis on the necessity for giving every legitimate aid to the railroads in this emergency, it is not improbable that he may later on again refer to the value of railroad consolidation as a medium for strengthening the rail systems of the country. The merger plan as it affects eastern carriers now before the interstate commerce commission has been sidetracked by the more pressing claims on that body, which first reviews the application of carriers for loans and then gives its recommendation to the reconstruction finance corporation.

CALL TO RANKS OF DRYS URGES MORE SUPPORT

W. C. T. U. Leader Says Congressmen Are Hearing Only from Wets

Chicago—(CP)—A call to arms for prohibition workers was sounded Tuesday at a conference of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union. It came from Mrs. Anna Marden DeLo, secretary of the W. C. T. U., who said: "It is not so much 'what's the matter with congress' as it is, 'what's the matter with the rank and file of their dry supporters.'"

"In other words, does your congressman know where you stand on re-submission and repeal? Have you kept him informed since he became your representative of what you expected of him? I know of at least one man with a dry record who stated that he was hearing only from his wet constituents. How do you hope to hold the line if you allow this condition to go on?"

"We need to remember that we are battling against a high powered wet organization with a millionaire backing and without a conscience. As if this were not enough, we have the powerful influence of the international wine office at Paris superimposed upon us. You have read the reports of the international wine congress meeting recently in Paris in which 30 nations united in opposition to the prohibition movement."

"The supporters of prohibition have fought their way for long weary years through the liquor jungle. We are not going back into that jungle. We shall hold the line."

Congress Remains Dry

The speaker said she wondered "in the face of the wet propaganda we are forced to hear and see all about us, if the people have forgotten that in spite of the wet gains in congress which have been heralded far and wide, both house and senate still remain 70 per cent dry, and our seventy-second congress has more dry members in both branches than had the congress which passed the Volstead act in 1919."

Mrs. Ella A. Bole, president of the organization, told the conference that close attention to the activities of opponents of prohibition in congress had been given and that "we condemn their efforts to delay plans for relief of unemployment and the financial depression by injecting their opposition to prohibition through introducing literally hundreds of bills, many of them duplicates for legalizing beer, for repealing the eighteenth amendment and substituting state control."

"They know," she added, "that none of these will pass this congress, but they consume time, waste money in printing bills and speeches in the congressional record and are no help in solving the problems of enforcement."

poor devil all his toes from frostbite. All this was filmed, as well as many escapes from death and unexcelled scenery. Still, we just must have 'love interest.'"

CAREFREE COW IS BETTER PRODUCER

Positive Conclusion Drawn After Elaborate Study of Environment

Genesee Depot—(CP)—Just one look into the milk pail proves that the happy, carefree cow is a better producer than a cow worried by unsatisfactory "working conditions."

This cursory but positive conclusion is drawn from the most elaborate study of cow environment ever undertaken. Extensive tests were made at the Brook Hill farm here by M. A. R. Kelley of the bureau of agricultural engineering of the U. S. department of agriculture. He was assisted by I. W. Ruppel, associate professor of animal husbandry at the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Sobei Okuyama, Japanese scientist and chairman of the research

"LOVE INTEREST"

London—British film magnates have refused to produce films taken on the dangerous British Himalayan Expedition last year because they do not contain a "love interest." T. S. Smythe, leader of the expedition, says the picture contains the following thrills: "At 25,000 feet our Tibetan cameraman collapsed and another porter had to carry the apparatus to the top. It cost the

"EAT MORE TO GET THIN"

An Italian Discovery

Drink Water Before Breakfast and Make One Change in Diet Only to Rip Off Ten Pounds in 10 Days

HERE is sweet music in scientific tempo for fat people's ears. "Eat more to grow thin."

Thanks to a unique Italian discovery, thousands of people are doing it. Losing as much as seven pounds a week, and building their health as well.

Here's the way. So if you want to get rid of some bulk, cut this article out and save it. Chances are, in a week, your friends will be wondering what you've been doing to yourself to get rid of the fat they used to tease you about.

What You Do

FIRST: As soon as you get up in the morning, put two tablespoonfuls of sparkling Brioschi Italian effervescent in a half glass of cool water; and drink it down while it is still effervescent. This tends to de-acidify the system before food touches the stomach.

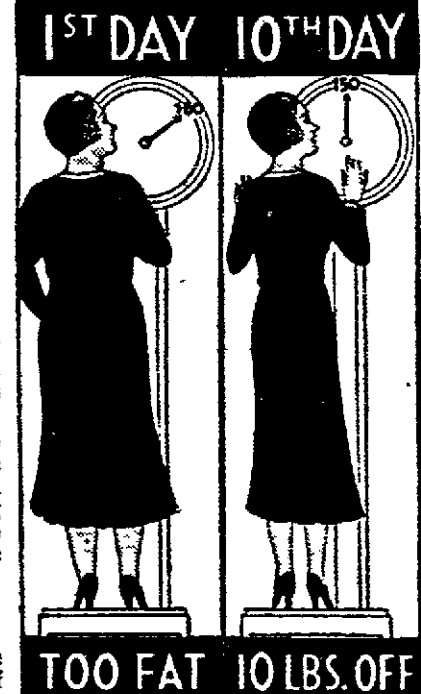

NEXT: Make just one simple change in your diet. Eat DOUBLE the quantity you now eat of certain foods; and cut down on others. Here are the foods to double on; the ones to cut down on.

DOUBLE on these: Carrots, spinach, oranges, cabbage, lettuce, new turnips, white squash, sauerkraut, broccoli, fresh peas, apples, and all green vegetables. See how much of these you can make your stomach hold. Eat also your usual appetite's requirement of any lean meat, beef, veal, chicken, etc., etc.

CUT on these: Eat bran or whole wheat bread instead of white bread or biscuits. For dessert have fresh fruit instead of pastry. Cut down on butter but don't cut it out entirely.

BEFORE BED: Repeat two tablespoonfuls of sparkling Brioschi Italian effervescent in half a glass of water to again de-acidify the stomach. Don't think, either, that this is hard. It makes a really pleasant drink that tastes like lemonade, not like vile-tasting salts. So everything is easy.

The result of this dietary change will be that you'll really have more than you want to eat, yet will see fat go in a way you wouldn't have believed. And you'll feel more active than you probably have for years. For the diet that takes off the fat, cut this article out and save it. The de-acidifier you use is called Brioschi Italian effervescent (pronounced Bree-oh-ky). You can get it at any drugstore.

committee of the Brook Hill laboratories. Kelley passed two winters at the Brook Hill farm, studying closely 96 of the farm's 600 cows. He has returned to Washington with a mass of data, not as yet correlated, but showing beyond doubt the benefits of proper shelter and surroundings for animals.

Temperature changes during cold weather cause a variation in production of as much as 70 per cent, Kelley found. The variation represents a serious economic loss.

"Of first importance, assuming cows are properly fed, are 'working conditions,'" Kelley said. "We took one barn housing 88 cows and divided it into four units. We recorded other factors, including humidity, ventilation, illumination, wind pressure, water consumption and feed."

"It is too early to announce conclusions, but it fully apparent that factors mentioned have an effect on production. By controlling them we were able to reduce daily variation in production to as little as two and one half per cent."

CHRYSLER

Harder than ever to follow

—in engineering—in performance—in value

CHRYSLER has done things to modern motor-ing that will, now or later, affect all motor car engineering.

For Chrysler, with Floating Power engine mountings—and with many other vitally important engineering developments—has inaugurated a sweeping change in the spirit, pace and "feel" of modern motor car performance.

Chrysler has given performance a new glamour—a new sensation. A ride in a Chrysler is unlike a ride in any other motor car. It isn't only the stirring experience of Chrysler pick-up and speed—it's the way it feels. It's the smoothness of it, the silence of it—a sensation beyond words. One ride in a Chrysler and you'll never feel the same way about the performance of any other car. Changes your notions about ease of steering. Changes your opinions about ease and silence of shifting gears. Changes your ideas about brakes—about spring action—about road-ability—about a lot of things.

It's all a matter of basic engineering—a matter of leading the way to new value and new results. Step into a new Chrysler today and learn what has happened in modern motor car achievement.
